Snow, ice cause injuries in area

A sudden snowfall that froze quickly into an icy sheathing on streets and sidewalks caused an massive traffic jam throughout the Quad-City area Tuesday afternoon and evening and resulted in a number of injuries to persons who fell on ice-covered walks and streets.

The snowfall which began in mid-afternoon ended with an accumulation of only half an inch, but the snow fell on cold streets, stuck hard and fast and was turned quickly into ice by spinning car wheels.

Street Department workers in Granite City, Venice and Madison were called out, but trucks were hampered in spreading salt and cinders by long lines of bumper-to-bumper traffic where icy surfaces made streets virtually impassable. Emergency vehicles also experienced difficulty in reaching their destinations in many instances.

The Eads and Veterans bridges at East St. Louis were closed when cars could not make it up slippery inclines. The Popular Street bridge remained open, but traffic moved at a snail's pace. The I-270 bridge condition also slowed traffic to a crawl.

Four persons were treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital Tuesday for injuries suffered in falls on ice-covered sidewalks and streets. Two of them were admitted for further treatment.

Regina Tackett, 8, of 2738 Dale Ave., was treated for a left eye injury, headache and a bruise to her forehead after a fall on the ice. She was treated at 9:10 p.m. and admitted.

Michael Carner, 32, of 109 Warsaw Lane, Mitchell, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by ambulance at 5:20 p.m. for treatment of a fractured right leg suffered in a fall on the ice. He was admitted.

Thomas Eschebeck, 6, of 30 Fontainebleau Drive, was treated at 3:55 p.m. for scalp bruises after a fall, and was released.

Also treated and released after a fall on the ice was Miss Katherine Jones, 26, of 4145 Highway 111. She was treated at 6:25 p.m. for a left ankle injury.

Sixteen ice-related accidents occurred in Granite City after the storm struck. Fourteen occurred in the city Tuesday afternoon and two others were reported Wednesday morning before the ice melted.

Granite City police received the first accident call at 3:45 p.m. Tuesday and were beset with nine accident calls between 4 p.m. and 5:05 p.m.

Accident calls were received by the deskman at the police station at 4:12, 4:14, 4:15, 4:24, 4:45, 4:49, 5 and 5:05 p.m. records show.

Autos damaged in Tuesday afternoon accidents in Granite City were those of Deborah Cavins, 3315 Wabash; Jill Thompson, 3805 Wabash; Keith Kibort, 3341 Colgate; Barbara Haley, 2125 Washington; James Bailey, Wood River; Verneta Dowdy, 2317 Independence.

Lorraine Horton, 807 Bissell, Madison; Linda Rae McLean, 2826 Sunset; William Cochran, 4205 Rode; James Dutchik, 2570 Spalding; James Blyue, 610 Washington; Charles Horton, 33 Grenzer Homes, Madison. Dennis Holz, 17 Briarcliff.

Mixed reaction to tax cut plan

By GARY SCHNEIDER

President Gerald Ford's economic and energy proposals this week have left many Quad-City residents and officials confused and somewhat disappointed, a Press-Record survey showed.

Pres. Ford called for a 12 percent rebate of 1974 taxes to all taxpayers, plus additional programs to put more money into circulation. He also urged higher gasoline costs as a way of curbing usage.

One woman commented that Mr. Ford seemed to be using the tax rebate plans as a way of "dangling the carrot in front of the jacks."

Another man said a one-year tax rebate "won't help us. We will already have spent that on gasoline taxes. He must think the American people are ignorant and that they can't figure that out."

Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison told the Press-Record, "I believe Democrats will come up with counter-proposals which will be better than Mr. Ford's plan. You can't make bad things sound good when they are not, which is what the President has tried to do."

Mayor Sasyk also said he feels Mr. Ford's comments may threaten the continuation of federal revenue sharing to cities.

Pres. Ford in his speech to the nation Monday night, "While wrestling with the budgets for this year and next, I found that at least three-fourths of all federal expenditures are required by laws already on the books."

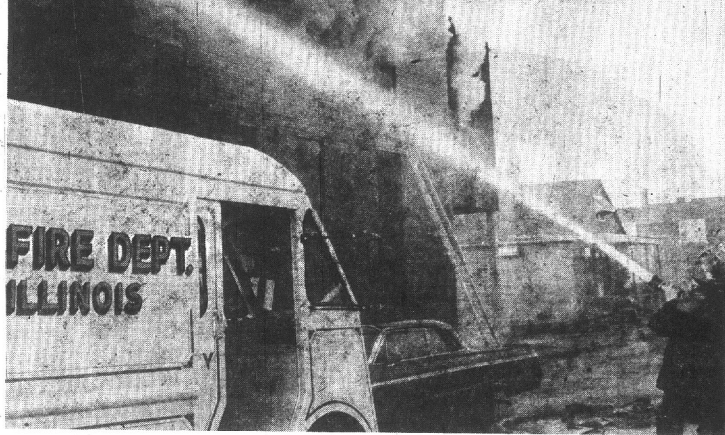

"The President cannot, by law, cut spending in an ever-growing list of programs which provide mandatory formulas for payments to state and local governments and to families and individuals."

"Unless these laws are changed, I can tell you there are two ways to go — still higher federal taxes or the more ruinous hidden tax of inflation."

Mayor William "Mike" Ebersold of Venice said he knows of no federal formulas for payments to local governments except revenue sharing, and said it was his initial impression that the President was posing a threat to its continuation.

"If he is doing that, he is

School tax suit

The Granite City Board of Education will join with the Alton Board of Education and any other board which agrees to participate in filing a suit against the Madison County Board to halt school districts and other bodies being charged a fee for the county's costs of tax collection.

In a letter to the Granite City school board, Boyd Mitchell, superintendent of the Alton public schools, invited Granite City to join with Alton in filing the suit and sharing in the costs.

Mitchell is inviting all public school boards in Madison County to join in the fight. The question of who is to pay for the cost of collecting taxes has been unresolved since the 1970 Illinois Constitution abolished the method of township tax collectors retaining a percentage of the taxes collected to pay for the cost of the service.

The task of collection then became one for which county governments were responsible. Last year, Madison County collected the taxes and charged each taxing body a percentage of the taxes collected. That was challenged in a suit, and was declared unconstitutional. The county government ended up paying the entire cost of collection throughout the county.

The county later proposed a plan in which an independent auditor is to determine the actual cost to the county of collecting taxes for each taxing body and each body is to be charged only the actual costs of collection.

That program was passed by the county board and is the program the Alton board wishes to challenge in court.

Granite City School Board members asked their attorney, William Schooley, at Tuesday night's meeting if he felt the new program is unconstitutional. Schooley said he felt the charges for actual costs of collecting taxes could be held legal by the court.

George Moore Sr., a school board member, noted that the entire cost of the suit would be less than $5,000, of which the local school district would pay only a portion, and added, "If we win, it would sure be worth the gamble."

Board Member Harold Davis added his feelings. "It is our function to educate children. It is the county's function to collect taxes."

The board voted unanimously to participate in the suit.

Razing of aged homes proposed

By WALTER STRANGE, Press-Record Staff Writer

Use of $100,000 in funds expected to be made available under the federal Community Development Act for an urban renewal project that would include razing of derelict structures and improvement of others will be recommended by the city of Madison as its major project in the development program, the City Council was told Tuesday night.

Mayor Mike Sasyk told the aldermen the urban renewal project was approved by the city's Community Development Committee in a meeting Friday night.

In addition, the mayor said, the committee recommended that as a second phase of the city's development program, a $50,000 fund be set aside for making loans to low-income and senior citizens for home improvements.

Sasyk explained that Madison expects to receive $150,000 over the three-year funding period of the Community Development Program. The city's share will come from a $7 million allotment over the three years to Madison County which will distribute the money for approved projects to communities within the county.

The projects approved by Madison will be included with projects planned by Granite City, Venice and Pontoon Beach. The two municipalities make up District Two of the Madison County program. Such plans are to be submitted to the County Development Committee within the next week.

The council Tuesday night also concurred in the appointment by Mayor Sasyk of Frank Papa, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Papa, 1807 Third St., Madison, as an administrative aide to the mayor.

Predict savings through filming of court records

By KEN THOMPSON, Press-Record Staff Writer

A planned microfilm center, designed to save Madison County taxpayers an estimated $1 million, has been initiated at the Madison County Courthouse, Edwardsville, under the supervision of Willard V. "Butch" Portell, clerk of the circuit court.

Portell based the estimate on the cost of potential alternatives. He told the Press-Record, "We are rapidly running out of space for recording records and documents."

"If we have to construct another building for future storage purposes, the cost could go as high as a million dollars." While explaining how the new center will save space, Portell pulled open a drawer of a 16-drawer filing cabinet, revealing court cases, on film, covering a period from the year 1818 to 1893.

At present, three employees of Portell's office are operating one piece of equipment to film such records as probate, civil, criminal and divorce cases.

Each roll of film contains 2,400 picture frames.

After it is filled, the film is sent to the Recorder of Deeds office for processing and then returned to Portell's office for proofreading and, if necessary, re-shooting.

It is then recorded by case number in a master index book and again in a cross-index, by name in alphabetical order. The second roll of microfilm is forwarded to the Illinois State Archives office at Springfield for safekeeping in the event something should happen to the original film.

Portell relates that all records prior to the year 1900 will be retained, in actual form and on film, as part of permanent record of Madison County historical items.

His office has petitioned the Illinois Records Commission for authority to destroy all files from 1901 to 1964.

It is estimated that two years will be necessary to bring the center up-to-date and to dispose of old records.

"The process is going to require full-time persons for that period," said Portell, "and then hopefully we can cut back to three full-time employees and continue with our long-range plans."

Those plans include a data processing system connected with the microfilming center. If the plan is successful, future records will be filmed and indexed in accordance with a person's Social Security number.

An operator would then only have to perform a single procedure in correct sequence to review on a screen all items of film pertaining to an individual holding a particular Social Security number.

Portell stresses that "the new system is governed by the Supreme Court."

"The general public will still be able to review past records, but on film rather than on paper, turning through thousands of files and binders to find what is wanted."

Joyce Conley, far right, of Granite City. The newly acquired equipment is part of a Microfilm Center being established by the Circuit Clerk's office at Edwardsville.

Everybody grows old. There's nothing science, medicine or nutrition can do about that. But, a shortage of Vitamin E in the diet can, according to certain nutritionists, bring about excess oxidation in the cells, thus hastening the aging process. Opposition to Equal Rights reform ebbs

By AUDREY GELLIS

Hopefully, the Equal Rights Amendment, which simply states that equality of rights under the law shall not be denied on account of sex will be passed by the U.S. Constitution by the time this nation celebrates its Bicentennial. Thirty-one of the necessary 38 states have ratified the amendment, leaving only seven to go.

Basically, the case of the dwindling opposition to ERA is that once passed, men would stop supporting their families and women would become subject to the draft and to combat service. Both arguments are myths, which nevertheless manage to frighten many women and men who don't know the facts.

The first fact is that it is love, conscience and social pressure, not the law, that determines how a man provides for his family. The law does stipulate that a husband support his wife and children, but it doesn't specify in what style. No matter how rich, a husband's only legal obligation is to provide sufficient food, clothing and shelter to prevent starvation and exposure. Typical of the law's attitude is the 1953 ruling of the Supreme Court of Nebraska that a wealthy farmer didn't have to provide his wife of 34 years with indoor plumbing or a working furnace. Further indication of the law's ineffectiveness are the legions of women living in poverty because their husbands refuse to work or else spend their salaries on alcohol, horses, drugs or other women.

When a marriage breaks up, the law is of little help. The poor man's divorce is frequently a disappearing act, leaving his family with nowhere to turn but welfare. When the husband is middle-class or wealthy, what his wife gets in the divorce settlement depends, as in the marriage, on his good will and generosity.

A recent survey by the Citizen's Advisory Council on the Status of Women revealed that alimony is awarded in fewer than 10 per cent of all divorce actions. As for child support, this same report shows that in most cases what the court awards is less than half the actual cost of supporting a child. And even this can't be counted on. A study in a major city showed only 38 per cent of fathers in full compliance with support orders during the first year after the divorce and a mere 13 per cent in full compliance after 10 years. (The report cited is available from the Women's Bureau, Dept. of Labor, Wash., D.C. 20210.) Obviously, most divorced mothers not only care for their children but provide the lion's share of support as well.

With passage of ERA, both parents would continue to be responsible for the support of their children; some constitutional lawyers believe that ERA would increase the amount of support payments to mothers as well as compliance, since the burden couldn't fall unequally on one parent.

As for the draft, this is a most question since we now have a volunteer army. And it is likely to stay so. The draft resisters during the Vietnam War weren't just those who refused to enter the service; those men with the connections to get into the National Guard or Reserves; the money and scholastic ability to go to college; the education to get draft deferred jobs; and again the money to consult draft lawyers and doctors. This type of inequity is not likely to be tolerated again by the American people.

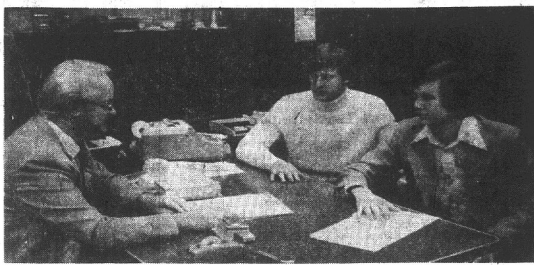

As for full-scale war, both sexes would probably have to serve anyway. You haven't much choice when they're dropping bombs on your block. The RAF got the glory for saving London during the Blitz but women "manned" the anti-aircraft guns on London's rooftops. In the Nazi-occupied countries of Europe, women fought alongside men in the underground, even though capture meant death by torture.

Our own government came close to drafting women during World War II and probably would have had the war gone on longer. In the event of a national emergency today, would the Pentagon hesitate to call up women because the Equal Rights Amendment had not been passed?

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Those who fret over women being sent into combat forget (1) the army has never made its assignments on the basis of constitutional rights and (2) organized warfare is a masculine affair. The army doesn't even accept women volunteers for combat duty. Men may argue that they are protecting women from the hazards of war; what they are really doing (and they know it) is denying us our fair share of the fruits of peace.

NEW ADMINISTRATIVE AIDE. Frank Papa, center, was appointed as administrative aide to Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison, left, at the Madison City Council meeting Tuesday night. At right is City Comptroller Albert Hudzik. The three officials are reviewing the duties of Papa.

DOA AT HOSPITAL. Tommy Winters, 69, of 304 Washington St., Brooklyn, was pronounced dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 5:05 a.m. today. Death was believed due to natural causes. The body was taken to an East St. Louis funeral home.

Pressure on House speaker 'holdouts'

Will the Illinois House decide on a new speaker this afternoon, or will the week-long debate continue beyond 80 roll calls? The issue remained unsettled at prestime today despite mounting pressure on local Representatives Horace Calvo and Joe Lucco. Deliberations were to resume at 1 p.m.

The two are among a band of 20 backing Rep. Clyde Choate, the early front-runner, against Rep. William Redmond, a Chicago area legislator who in balloting Tuesday reached 81 of the 89 votes needed for election as House speaker.

Those supporting Choate, an Anna resident, favor a Downstate speaker because the Senate president is a Chicagoan.

Those asking them to give in have included Gov. Daniel Walker, U. S. Senator Adlai Stevenson, Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, Secretary of State Michael Howlett and State Treasurer Alan Dixon.

Aides of Gov. Walker initially threatened to take away patronage jobs in districts where legislators had not followed their directions on the speaker voting. Now, these jobs have been restored and more jobs have been promised. Choate charged Tuesday.

Riley C. Brown of Granite City continues to receive some ballot support as speaker but he has been rejected as a compromise candidate because of his initial and enduring support for Choate.

Unless the current pressure succeeds in swinging enough votes to Redmond, or unless some Republicans "go on the act" of the Democrats, a new compromise may be attempted. The Democrats have a 54-26 numerical advantage in the session that began last week.

Mrs. Mae Hoelscher, 74, former resident, dies

Mrs. Mae Hoelscher, 74, of Clearwater, Fla., the wife of G. W. "Gus" Hoelscher, former general manager-secretary of the East Side Manufacturers Association (later the Manufacturers Association of the Tri-Cities) for nearly 28 years, died at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Druid Nursing Home in Clearwater.

Mrs. Hoelscher had been in ill health several years.

She was born in Ellwood, Ind., and lived in Granite City for 50 years prior to moving to Florida 10 years ago. She was a member of St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ.

Her husband, who survives, was a widely respected civic leader during his 63-year residence in Granite City. In addition to his post with the Manufacturers Association, Gus Hoelscher served as president of the Granite City High School Board for 15 years and president of the Tri-Cities Area YMCA for 25 years.

He also is a past president of the Illinois Industrial Council, Community Chest, St. Peter's Church, Sunset Hills Country Club, Cahokia Mounds, Boy Scout Council, among other community leadership posts.

In 1957, Hoelscher played a key role in securing donations of $425,000 from industry toward the $840,000 addition to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Upon his retirement in 1964, Hoelscher was succeeded as general manager of the Manufacturers Association by his son, William F. Hoelscher. The latter held the post until 1972 when he moved with his family to Beaverton, Ore.

In addition to her husband and son, Mrs. Hoelscher is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Gordon (Lois) Mae Senoff of Fort Collins, Colo.; a sister, Mrs. Henry (Maude) Detering of Kansas City, Mo.; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at St. Peter's Church. Details are given in today's obituary column.

The Illinois Municipal League this week said it will seek legislation exempting officials in small cities from the state's conflict of interest law, asserting that it would be difficult to avoid some economic ties.

A flood of applications for Pres. Ford's amnesty program has reached the armed forces and the clemency board with only two weeks left before the offer expires. Board Chairman Charles Goodell said Tuesday he will ask that the Jan. 31 deadline be extended.

Cong. Al Ullman, new Ways and Means chairman, on Tuesday introduced a national health insurance bill affecting catastrophic illness.

A possible strike by Amoco Oil Co. refinery workers is set for midnight tonight unless there is fast progress in contract talks.

Sen. Kenneth Hall (D, East St. Louis) has been named chairman of the Illinois Senate Committee on Commerce, Industry, and Labor.

Sam Vadalabene (D, Edwardsville) is believed likely to receive several key appointments.

The Environmental Task Force on Tuesday asked the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council board to develop by June 30 a specific plan to administer a proposed regional park system.

The U. S. Supreme Court on Monday declined to review a Missouri law allowing public schools to lend textbooks to private schools. The decision leaves in effect a Missouri Supreme Court ruling that the program violates constitutional church-state barriers.

Results of a six-month "master plan" study of Lambert Airport are to be announced Jan. 24.

Pres. Ford on Tuesday named Edward H. Levi, president of the University of Chicago, to be U. S. attorney general and William T. Coleman, a Philadelphia lawyer, as next Transportation Department secretary.

Robert L. Toburen, former Granite Cityan, was elected this week as assistant treasurer of Chippewa Trust Co. and manager of its new bank on Gravois Ave.

Granite City High School North has been paired with Belleville Althoff at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 21, in the seventh annual Belleville East invitational basketball tournament Jan. 21-25. Top-seeded teams are Belleville West and Triad.

Suit against clinic

A suit has been filed in Madison County Circuit Court by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission against a local family planning clinic.

The EOC alleges that from February to June 1974, the director and two employees filed false invoices with the county, seeking $45,000 actual and $80,000 punitive damages. A third count seeks $50,000 actual and $100,000 punitive plus a permanent injunction restraining the establishment of a competing clinic.

Susan EEOC, former clinic director, and Mrs. Martha Hogan, present director, the suit alleges.

It is contended that Susan EEOC was hired in February, that the EOC was not advised and that from then until June, invoices to the EOC represented that the physician was personally staffing and directing the clinic.

Mrs. Hogan authorized payments on such invoices, the suit alleges.

Further alleged is that the clinic operated in competition with the EOC's clinic, and that procedures followed caused the St. Louis Metropolitan Area Council for Voluntary Family Planning to terminate funding for the EOC clinic, threatening that facility with closing and damages in the amount of $45,000.

The first count asks for $45,000.

The Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development concedes it cannot offer as many loans as it would like for spectacular auto chases, but says that despite this it will try to lure film-makers to this state.

Director Richard Holzman says, "We're not just Chicago and some cornfields, but beautiful hills, Civil War scenery, working class sites and great parks and rivers."

Harold Weber, Chicago chapter president of the American Society of Safety Engineers, said Monday that Rachel Scott has not been certified as qualified by a safety proficiency board. She has been appointed to head the Illinois Occupational Safety and Health Agency.

The Illinois Municipal League this week said it will seek legislation exempting officials in small cities from the state's conflict of interest law, asserting that it would be difficult to avoid some economic ties.

Progress in effort to provide access to shopping areas

One of the prime objectives of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce's Highway, Traffic and Transportation Committee, chaired by Richard Ervay, is an access road behind local shopping centers to relieve traffic congestion on Nameoki Road, and additional meetings were held on the topic this week. Earlier, Ervay appointed subcommittees on right-of-way, Chairman Maurice Daley, financing, Chairman Bill H. Terrell, and cost estimate, Chairman Henry Ross.

Each committee has met, followed by a joint meeting chaired by Ervay Monday.

After considerable discussion, the committees have agreed that the most logical route is to build an access road from West Ponton Road on the north to 25th Street along the railroad tracks, with at least two driveways on the west side of the shopping centers.

Daley, was authorized to proceed with easements along the railroad tracks; the committee believes they can be obtained free of charge to the city.

The finance and cost estimate units will meet later this month to compare notes and develop tentative figures.

A joint meeting Feb. 10 will include a report from the right-of-way subcommittee.

BATTLING FOR A REBOUND during East St. Louis's 72-56 win over GCHS South Tuesday night. Warriors (left to right) include Bob Hutchings

South lead fails to last in conference game with Flyers

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer
"Will she love us in December as she did in May?" That might have been a thought on the minds of the Warriors as they enjoyed early success over the highly-regarded East St. Louis basketball team here Tuesday night.

Dame Fortune proved to be fickle, and the Flyers captured the Southwestern Conference contest 72-56. A height disadvantage and a cooling-off in its shooting accuracy proved disastrous for the host Granite City High School South quintet after it had hustled to a 16-11 first-quarter lead.

South threatened to play the role of a "giant killer" and topple the Flyers from a three-way deadlock for second place in conference standings before East St. Louis virtually put a halt to Warrior inside shooting. Flyer Anthony Williams, a 6-7 junior, and Hubert Hoozman, a 6-5 senior, thrived sufficiently from their cold bus trip to dominate the backboards and the scoring.

Williams was instrumental in his team leading South 48-29 in rebound victories. Hoozman, who tallied 27 points, put in big ones on the board in the second period, helping East St. Louis to a five-point, 33-28 halftime margin. Warrior Ken Bertrand, at 6-3, was South's big scorer with 22 points in the game. But when the Flyers closed the inside passing lanes, the game began to get out of reach.

The visitors stretched their lead to 49-38 going into the final period and then outscored South 21-18 to assure the win. Bertrand helped maintain South's slim margin through the early minutes of the second quarter when he hit with accuracy from the foul line for six points and then added a field goal. But only two other players were able to support his effort with a basket apiece during this time.

Meanwhile, Hoozman pumped in 10 points and

Williams, who had failed to score in the opening period, tipped in three straight rebounds for six points.

South was still in the game late in the third period, trailing by five at 57-52, until two stolen passes and four straight recoveries of missed shots resulted in a 49-32 spread over the home team.

Overall, East St. Louis made good 32 of 71 field goal attempts and eight of 17 foul shots. South was 22 of 55 from the field and 12 of 14 on charity tosses.

South committed the most fouls, 15-13, but had the fewest turnovers, 9-13. Other than Bertrand, South pointmakers were: Bob Hutchings 12, Tom Schooley 10, Dave Naglich six, Jim Nolan four and Mike McRaven two.

The victory moved the Flyers back into second place in the conference standings with a 5-2 mark behind league-leading Alton, which is 4-1.

Belleville West and Collinsville are still deadlocked at 4-2. Edwardsville is 3-3, Belleville East 2-3, Cahokia 1-4 and South 0-6.

Freeman to be saluted as basketball Spirits host San Antonio five

It will be "Madison and Venice Day" at tomorrow night's St. Louis Spirits-San Antonio Spurs professional basketball game, with special honors to be accorded Don Freeman of the Spurs.

Freeman starred for Madison High School and the University of Illinois before joining the pro ranks, where he has proved to be one of the top performers for a number of years. The Spirits after meeting the Memphis Sounds last night have their thoughts on two subjects—American Basketball Association all-star balloting today, and Friday's 7:30 p.m. contest with the Spurs at the St. Louis Arena.

Among the Spirits interested in the all-star voting are movin' Marvin Barnes, 6-9 rookie forward who has thrust himself into the pro basketball limelight with his outstanding play, and veteran Freddie Lewis, who has completely reversed any thinking that he might be heading downhill by instead putting together perhaps his greater season.

Both Barnes and Lewis are leading candidates to start for the East squad in the ABA All Star game at San Antonio on Jan. 28, which would be quite a feat for the new Spirits, who started the season almost from scratch.

Barnes is averaging 21.8 points and 13.1 rebounds and Lewis has a scoring pace of 24.1 points.

The arena game Friday will be "bargain night," with fans able to purchase one ticket and get another free.

The Spirits upended the powerful Spurs in San Antonio's only other arena appearance in a thrilling 119-118 victory.

San Antonio will bring in a starting lineup of possible all-stars led by the baby mountain, Sven Nater, a 6-11 powerhouse who leads the league in rebounding.

Nater and 6-7 forward George Gervin are almost certain all-stars, with Forward Rich Jones and Guards James Silas and Donnie Freeman also rating considerable attention; all average well into double figures in scoring.

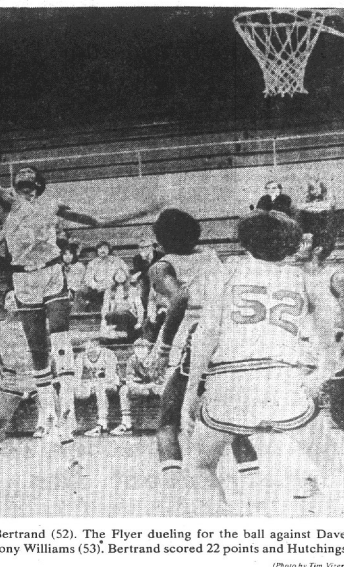

Freeman will be making his second appearance as a Spur before his home crowd after his brilliant high school career at Madison and college cage career at Illinois. Ed Macauley and Harry Gallatin, two other basketball greats, have been hard at work in anticipation of their pro-coaching comebacks Friday night for the Spirits-Media out-of-shape game at the Arena.

The game, between a team of St. Louis area media all-stars and the Spirits' front office, will be played at halftime of the regularly scheduled contest between the regular Spirits and the San Antonio Spurs.

Macauley, aware that this game could be a "highlight" of a career that included all-America honors as a player at St. Louis U. and playing and coaching in the NBA with the Boston Celtics and the old St. Louis Hawks, has been watching television and reading newspapers the past seven days to scout his opponents.

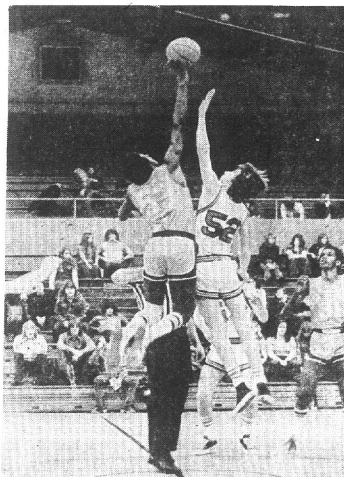

"I'm also having our team work on the old backdoor play," Easy Ed says, "so we can leave in a hurry."

Gallatin, another National Basketball Association great who coached the New York Knicks and the old Hawks and was the athletic director at SIU at Edwardsville, has had two members of his squad, Penny Krone and Betsy Bruce, doing wind sprints. He also has spent considerable time explaining to Tim Van Galder the difference between a basketball and a football.

Red Devils bedevil Marissa, advance to the semifinals

Venice High School is seeking to capture its second straight basketball tournament of the 1974-75 season, at the field and eight from the charity line while fouling 16 points. But the Red Devils first must get past the Marissa Indians in semifinal action tonight at 8:30.

The Devils, now 11-1, blasted Marissa off the courts 79-46 Monday on double-figure scoring by five players to advance to meet the Indians.

Venice led 22-12 at 4:24 and 64-32 at the quarters and outscored Marissa 15-14 in the final period. Marissa, which will meet Waterloo at 7 o'clock this evening in a consolation contest, was fresh from capturing the 1974-75 state title during the weekend at the Chester tournament, and Venice had just rolled to its ninth Illinois tournament title in 11 years at the Freeburg tournament Dec. 30.

The Devils meshed 34 field goals and 11 free throws while committing 11 fouls.

Hoop shoot competition in GC between 8 Elks lodges

An estimated 48 youngsters representing eight Southwestern District Elks lodges — Carlinville, Belleville, Litchfield, Taylorville, Fairview Heights, Jerseyville and Granite City — will gather at 1 p.m. Saturday at Grigsby Junior High School to begin district "hoop shoot" free throw competition.

Winners of each of three age groups will advance to the state finals Feb. 22 at the University of Illinois at Champaign.

Richard Yates, chairman of the Granite City Elks Lodge 1063 event, said a boy and a girl champion from each age level — 9-9, 10-11 and 12-12 — will advance to the state meet.

Rules for district competition will be the same as those utilized in the local event held Dec. 14.

Contestants will be allowed two warm-up shots, after which they will shoot 10 times for scoring; contestants may not bounce the ball more than four times between shots.

Ties will be broken by taking five additional shots.

Car is burned

Madison County sheriff's deputies and firemen from the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department were called to State Aid Route 35 east of Route 111 at 10 p.m. yesterday when an auto was found burning.

The car, belonging to Louis Colone, Collinsville, had been stolen, the owner later reported.

Four wheels and the spare tire had been removed from the car before it was burned. The auto was destroyed by the fire. Firemen were on the scene 20 minutes.

Basketball Trojans fly high to defeat Dutchmen, 92-48

"We benched our starters at the end of the first quarter," said a Madison High School spokesman, "to let other Trojans get game experience."

He was recalling Madison's 92-48 conquest Tuesday of the Cleveland High School Dutchmen.

Eleven Trojan cagers scored in the contest that saw Madison ahead 26-10, 48-28 and 68-34 at the quarters.

Evan Dandridge, a 6-4 senior, hit the nets for 17 points in only his second game of the season. He had been ineligible to play until two weeks ago.

MHS made good 28 of 72 field goal attempts and 16 of 27 charity shots. Madison made the fewest fouls, 15-23, and turnovers, 14-24, while controlling the boards with 41 rebounds to the Dutchmen's 27.

Trojan Coach Larry Graham occasionally substituted members of the starting five in place of other players during the contest.

SOLID COPPER DOME sits majestically atop the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church, 13th Street and Grand Avenue, Madison. The church is undergoing a $90,000 expansion and remodeling program including the new dome. A new front section of 1,640 square feet has been added, styled after traditional Bulgarian churches. The late Vasil Tarpoft, who died in November 1974, was chairman of the building committee when the project was started. Leon Ross Construction is the general contractor. Just below the dome exterior is a picture of the Holy Trinity.

East-West urged to stress fair hiring by its consultants

The Citizens Regional Forum of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council voted unanimously Wednesday to endorse an amended version of a proposal submitted by its Transportation Task Force calling for establishment of a policy requiring review of affirmative action plans and employment practices of potential consultants for a segment of the EWGCC transit study before they are hired by the council.

Currently, East-West requires that consulting firms with which it does business have an affirmative action plan, but no review of the plans or the actual employment practices of candidate firms is provided for in the consultant selection process.

Such a review, said James Nations, chairman of the Transportation Task Force, said, "should include not only study of the firm's affirmative action plan itself, but also evaluation of the firm's staff makeup, particularly as it reflects employment of minorities and women, to determine the plan's implementation status and effectiveness."

Economic plan seen as a positive step

Howard M. "Pete" Low, president of the Granite City Steel and Midwest Steel divisions of National Steel Corp., said today he feels that President Ford's economic plan is a positive step for the economy.

Love commented, "Although I have not had an opportunity to study them in detail, President Ford's tax proposals appear to have merit and, particularly, the suggested increase in the investment tax credit and reduction in the corporate tax rate."

Woman threatened by youth

Mrs. Evelyn Kent, Parktowne West Mobile Home Park, reported at 8:50 p.m. yesterday that while she was in a coin laundry at Pontoon Road and Briarcliff Drive, a young man, about 20 years of age, displayed a knife and tried to force her to go inside to his auto.

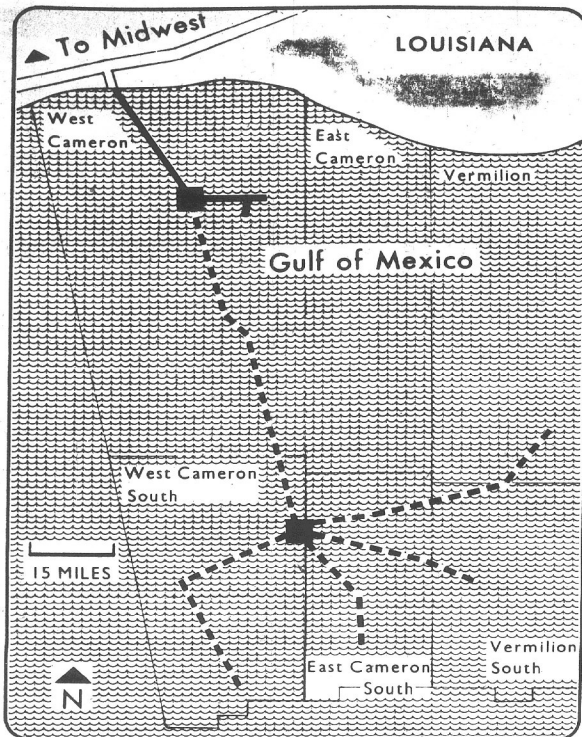

She said the man entered and asked her if she did not have long as three hours to return.

Many motorists got tired of fighting the ice and the slow moving traffic and decided to stay in motels on the Missouri side of the river, filling many motels rapidly.

Mrs. Pamela Fairfield, 21 of 4912 Redwood Lane, Mitchell, was among those injured in traffic mishaps which the state police handled. She suffered a cut to her tongue and an injury to her right foot after an accident in which her head struck a car's windshield. She was brought to St. Elizabeth Hospital and was admitted.

She said the man then ordered her to go, saying if she did not, he would cut her throat. She told police that she responded, "I don't care."

The man then said he was going to his car and if she screamed, he would return and cut her throat. He left in a white 1973 or 1974 Mach 1 Ford Mustang, she reported.

Big role for steel in Gulf search for offshore oil and gas—Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America is making additional Cameron area gas available this winter to Midwestern utilities including Illinois Power Co. in this area—
Article tells of a typical visit to exploration sites beyond the Louisiana shore

By Thomas D. Patrick

AS WE BROKE through the thin white clouds, we looked out the windows of the helicopter and could see in the distance an awkward-looking gray shape rising above the blue water.

We moved closer and it materialized into a giant platform held by three huge legs. When the helicopter settled down on the platform's small landing pad, it was hard to believe we were 150 miles off the coast of Louisiana in the Gulf of Mexico. This was Marlin 6—a drilling rig owned by Marlin Drilling Co. and currently on lease to Continental Oil Co.

Marlin 6 is just one unit in an extensive effort that has assembled an armada of ships, helicopters and thousands of men and women on the Gulf Coast for one purpose—to locate and produce oil and natural gas to help combat the energy crisis.

Since 1932 more than 19,000 wells have been drilled in a four-million-acre area of the Gulf of Mexico.

Interior Department officials now believe that offshore drilling is the best way to achieve Project Independence (the government's plan for self-sufficiency in energy by 1985). The Interior Department has speeded up the leasing of federal tracts in the Gulf of Mexico and is considering leasing areas in the waters off the Atlantic Coast and in the Gulf of Alaska.

Today, offshore oil and gas wells account for 15 to 17 percent of the nation's petroleum output.

The Interior Department believes that the 1.1 million barrels of oil per day now produced offshore might be boosted to 4 million by 1980 if the Atlantic Coast and Alaska areas are tapped.

Steel plays a prominent role in this race for more petroleum sources. Tubular products are used in the drilling, gathering, refining and transmission of fuel by both the oil and gas industries.

In addition, large quantities of construction and specialty steels, including concrete reinforcing bars, are being consumed by these industries to build more offshore drilling and production rigs and to expand or build new refineries on land.

The American Petroleum Institute reports that there are 63 exploration and production rigs now operating in the Gulf of Mexico.

Many of these rigs, like the Marlin 6, are large enough to provide living quarters for the crew, storage for supplies and huge machinery for drilling into the ocean floor.

Marlin 6 is a self-elevating mobile drilling platform. Its independent leg system and jacking system permit year-around operation over almost any type of ocean floor in water depths up to 300 ft. The rig can operate for several weeks without servicing from shore because it has a large storage capacity for supplies and air conditioned accommodations for 54 men and women.

Women are moving into this previously male-dominated vocation and are employed in support staffs on sea and shore. The Marlin 6 crew works 12-hr. shifts—on seven days and off seven days. Crews are shuttled to and from the rigs by helicopter. Most of the Marlin 6 crew members live in Mississippi, Texas or Louisiana.

What brings these people to this isolated area of the Gulf? It's the sense of adventure in some instances; in other instances—economics. Whatever the reasons, their jobs are related to locating and putting more wells into production.

In the simplest terms, an oil or gas well is a steel-encased hole which serves as a pipeline from an underground petroleum source to the surface. The same basic principle applies whether the well is drilled on shore or under water.

The well is drilled using a series of drilling bits that cut a hole into the rock strata. At a relatively shallow depth, the bit and drilling tools are removed, and steel casing (outer pipe of the well) is lowered into the hole and cemented into place.

The drilling process is then repeated, and the hole is drilled deeper and other smaller casings are placed inside the first ones, until the desired depth is reached.

During the entire drilling procedure, precautions are taken to prevent the uncontrolled release of fluids or gases from the well. Automatic shutdown equipment, including subsurface safety valves are attached as a precaution. A special fluid called "mud" is forced through the drill stem (hollow pipe that turns the bit) and up the well between the drill stem and the hole created by the bit. This mud controls pressures within the well, lubricates and cools the bit, seals the rock strata until the casing is in place, supports the sides of the hole and carries the rock chips cut by the bit back to the surface.

The density and other properties of the mud can be varied to meet conditions within each particular well. Operations are monitored with the latest electronic equipment during the drilling.

If oil or gas is found in large enough quantities, production casing is placed in the hole and cemented into place.

Next, a special instrument containing sockets which hold either explosive charges or bullets similar to those used in a gun is lowered into the well.

This instrument fires charges or bullets through the casing into the rock and opens passages for the oil or natural gas to flow into the well above. Additional tubing, through which the oil or gas flows, is suspended within the innermost string of casing from an assembly of valves and other equipment at the well head. This complex-looking apparatus is called a "Christmas tree." It controls the flow from the moment the well starts producing oil or gas.

It costs about $25,000 per day to operate the Marlin 6 rig, according to Floyd Trout, tool pusher (crew foreman) for Marlin Drilling Co. Other rigs range from $20,000 to $75,000 per day.

"Our chances are about 1 in 10 of finding significant quantities of oil or gas," said Trout. "We average 1,000 ft. per day and usually go down to 9,500 to 10,000 ft. before we stop drilling. Counting our get-ready time, this means we are in one spot from 10 days to two weeks," he said.

The workers are quick to refute environmental critics. Welder T. T. Daigle said, "Look at the water around the rig. Do you see any polluted water or dead fish? Of course not, just beautiful blue water." With a note of pride, Daigle said that Marlin 6 has its own sewage treatment plant. Then he pointed to several men near the railing. "They're fishing. It's great out here!"

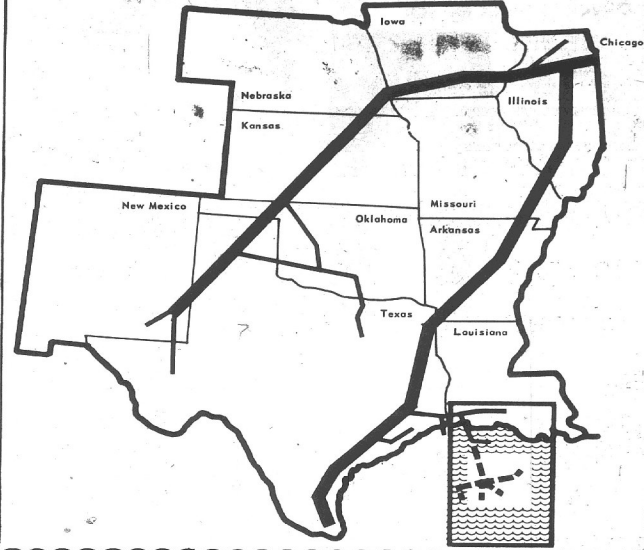

Until recently, offshore drilling was possible in water depths up to 300 ft. Now it's possible to drill over 1,000 ft. deep. And oil men are currently experimenting with methods capable of drilling in water depths exceeding 6,000 ft.

Nameoki auditor quits, but awaits successor

Nameoki Township Auditor Norman Hessler resigned from the Nameoki Town Board of Auditors Monday night, but was convinced by the other auditors to reconsider and decided to remain on the board until all other members can agree upon a person to replace him.

Hessler's resignation, dated Jan. 7, was read to the board at its regular meeting Monday night. Hessler asked it to become effective Tuesday.

He cited obligations to his family, church and job and the "ever-increasing time required to be an effective member of the board," in his letter.

After lengthy discussion and praise for Hessler's work, the board voted to accept the resignation. Later the other auditors asked him to consider remaining on the board until an agreeable replacement can be found.

Hessler later submitted a letter noting he did not feel his resignation was fair to the other auditors. He said he hopes a suitable successor could be found in a short period of time.

In his letter requesting reinstatement on the board, Hessler said, "Although my basic reasons have not changed, I hope this will prevent any deadlocks with four members and will prevent undue workload on the remaining members."

The other auditors were reported to have told him they felt the board would split on 2-2 votes on anyone to replace him and the deadlock could cause a costly special election to be called to elect a successor. Board members agreed, in separate telephone calls, to arrange a "special meeting" for Tuesday in which the acceptance of the resignation motion could be rescinded and Hessler could be reinstated. The "meeting" was comprised of each auditor visiting the town hall sometime during the day Tuesday and signing the motion to rescind the acceptance. Everyone signed the document. Hessler first was elected to the board in April 1973 and was to have served until 1977. He is chairman of the township's finance and auditing committee and is a member of the legislative, environmental control, road and bridge and animal control committees.

$10,000 damage in fire at Madison apartment

Fire of undetermined origin gutted a second floor apartment at 327a Madison Ave., Madison, Tuesday morning, causing damages estimated at $10,000. The fire, which is believed to have started in the kitchen, caused $5,000 damage to the building and $5,000 damage to contents, according to an estimate by Madison Fire Chief Eldon Rhoads.

The apartment was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Fisher, whose pet dog died in the fire. The building is owned by Joseph Radman.

The apartment is located over Pam's Cafe which sustained no fire damage. Water from fire hoses dripped into the cafe, however, and firemen remained at the scene after the fire was extinguished to help clean up the restaurant.

Firemen received their first call on the fire at 9:35 a.m. and were on the scene until noon.

Water spray from fire hoses froze quickly on the street, but the icy condition was eliminated by the City Street Department whose workers spread salt over the intersection. Madison and Venice police directed traffic at the Fourth Street and Madison Avenue intersection while firemen fought the blaze.

ILLINOIS' OUTDOOR HERITAGE

WOODCHUCK
(Marmota Monax)

Found throughout the state, the woodchuck is generally grayish-brown, weighs up to 14 pounds and lives to be 5 to 6 years of age. When alarmed he will give a loud, shrill whistle, and when angered he chatters or grinds his teeth together. Often called groundhog, he prefers to live in the parts of timber bordered by open lands, along fence rows or stream banks. A burrowing animal, his den usually contains two to three escape routes. By late October, most woodchucks are hibernating, but often emerging from sleep as early as the first week in February. Woodchucks are very alert and spend a great deal of their time outside the burrow, feeding and alternately rising up on their hind legs to sniff the air or look around. At the least alarm, they freeze momentarily, then dash to their burrow. Their home range is rarely farther than a half-mile from the burrow. Vegetarians, they eat mainly leaves, flowers, roots and soft stems of grasses. In Illinois, woodchucks can be hunted and trapped from June 1 to March 31 yearly.

State Mother nominees sought

A search is now in progress for the outstanding mother who will represent Illinois at the conference of all 50 State Mothers in New York City in May when one will be named "National Mother of the Year." Mrs. Homer W. Alvey, Illinois Mothers Committee Chairman for the American Mothers Committee, Inc., said nomination blanks are now being distributed throughout the state to organizations, church and civic groups who are interested in helping to find the Illinois mother who most symbolizes ideal motherhood.

Nomination blanks also may be obtained by writing Mrs. Alvey, at 303 Peoria St., Lincoln, Ill. 62556. State entries must be returned to Mrs. Alvey by Feb. 1 to permit the selection of a State Mother by a panel of judges.

The state chairman explained in 1975 Illinois Mother's credentials must be received in New York by March 1, at which time a national panel will choose the "American Mother of the Year."

All State Mothers who are "runners-up" will be designated "Merit Mothers" and will receive special citations; also their names may be submitted to run again for State Mother.

A State Mother nominee must be a woman of achievement, an active member of her church or synagogue and her youngest child must be at least 15 years of age. All candidates must be sponsored by an organization, Mrs. Alvey said.

Mrs. Eugenia Mott Hess, Champaign, was Illinois State Mother in 1974. The current state chairman was chosen Illinois Mother in 1973.

Choir workshop open to public

Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave., will host Rod Latta, the Illinois Baptist music secretary, in a choir workshop Friday and Saturday.

Latta has been state secretary for the past eight years. He is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University and Southwestern Baptist Seminary. He has served as minister of music in Oklahoma, Texas and Missouri before assuming the post of Illinois state secretary.

The director of the Singing Illinoisans, he also has been an author of the new Baptist hymnal which will be presented in Nashville in March.

The workshop sessions will begin at 7 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. on Saturday.

Music directors or choir members are invited to participate. A highlight of the workshop will be a performance by the Belleville Westview Baptist Church Youth Choir. They are touring with a musical called "No Hassle" and will be leaving here for Springfield.

The Belleville choir also will participate in the workshop. Carl Shepperd, a graduate of Howard Payne University and Southwestern Seminary, will direct the Belleville Choir. Shepperd is minister of music at Westview Baptist Church.

Reverend Al Slayter, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, and Bill Ellsworth, director of music, invited the public to attend the workshop.

There is no charge.

Eagleaires band appears at home

The Granite City Eagleaires Kitchen Band entertained at the Colonial Haven Nursing Home during the weekend and after the musical performance served cake and punch to the residents.

Mrs. Maude McKinney was announced as a Valentine spelling bee champion, and Dick Brown was named winner of the bowling contest.

Planning for a Valentine Sweetheart Dance, previously arranged for 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 14 for residents, their families and friends, is unable to proceed due to lack of a band, home administrators reported.

A special in-service program was presented Monday at Colonial Haven by Mrs. Ella Shindell of the Multiple Sclerosis Society's Greater St. Louis Chapter. About 50 staff members attended, viewed a film and participated in a question-discussion period.

Fresh ideas concerning treatment procedures for multiple sclerosis patients were described to the nursing home staff and a followup program tentatively was set for later this year in which families and residents may participate, it was learned.

First service in new church

The congregation of the Central Free Methodist Church will have its first worship service in the newly constructed church, 4150 South St. at the end of Lake Street in Pontoon Beach Village Sunday.

Sunday School classes have been held in nearly every room of the parsonage, in a trailer and in the home of one of a neighbor.

The new building, designed by Thompson Associates in Troy, being finished by the Stephens-Wilson Associates of Granite City. The 4,000 square foot building has two stories.

Pastor Gene Stevenson said Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the new building and at 10:40 the morning worship service will be held. An evening worship service is scheduled at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

Mrs. Paul hosts 2nd Baptist class

Mrs. Alene Reagens, class president, was in charge of the program and business session. Reports were presented and roll call was answered with scripture verses.

Prayers for the sick were offered by Mrs. Evelyn Smith and Mrs. Louise Mitchell and the meeting was dismissed by singing "An Evening Prayer."

A dessert course was served by the hostesses to those named and to Mesdames Virginia Ficker, Iva Biggs, Naomi Burnett, Rachel Westphal, Dena Watson, Minnie Cavins, Lois Jones and Lena Bonhiver.

Mrs. Burnett will serve as hostess at the next meeting.

Weather cancels Kiwanis program

Due to the icy conditions Tuesday the Evening Kiwanis Club did not have a formal meeting at Charlie's Restaurant.

It was reported by Kiwanian Mike Toudas that six "brave" members who made the meeting enjoyed dinner together and will meet again next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. for dinner and a regular meeting.

$200 IS STOLEN

About $200 in change was stolen from the home of Ann McGee, Box 8, Harrison Ave., during a burglary reported at 9:30 p.m. Tuesday. Entry was gained by breaking open a kitchen door.

Mrs. Frank Mercer, program chairman, introduced the reviewer, and Mrs. Walter Klein, president, was in charge of the business session.

Nineteen members answered roll call with current event items of general interest.

The club will be entertained on Feb. 11 at the home of Mrs. John Gordon, 3152 Colgate Drive. Mrs. Ernest Reardon will present the February program.

Truck license crackdown boon to Illinois treasury

Another new record - $2,697,870 - was collected during 1974 in forced registrations from trucks entering Illinois without proper licensing, Michael J. Howlett, Secretary of State, said today.

Howlett was guest speaker at a dinner of the Special Agents Association at Chicago. Members are heads, or former heads, of law enforcement or security for private industry and for state, local and federal government agencies.

"The 1974 collection was 15 per cent higher than in 1973, which in turn was almost double the $1,651,760 paid by unlicensed out-of-state truckers in 1972," said Howlett.

"The figures tell only part of the story. Since we started our enforcement program, many out-of-state truckers who tried to use our highways without paying the fees have begun complying with the law.

"Interstate carriers in 1974 paid $1,500,000 more for pro-rated decals than in 1973 without waiting to be forced. About 205,000 units qualified in 1974, as compared to 189,000 in 1973.

"We have professionalized our 200-man investigative unit. All new investigators now take a nine-week course at the police training academy in Springfield, instead of the two-week training formerly given.

"In addition, we have in-service training each year to bring all investigators up to date on changes in the Illinois Motor Vehicle Code, on new rules in our own operation and new defensive tactics.

"Our investigator recruits must be 21 to 45 years old and must pass a rigid physical examination and an extensive background check.

"In 1974, they recovered 280 stolen cars and trucks and broke up one of the biggest auto theft rings in the central states.

"Our investigators are instructed to assist other law enforcement agencies in any way feasible, but without duplicating any other agency's work.

"Last year, they responded to 314 calls for assistance from other agencies.

"They cooperate with state, county and local police and with inspectors of the Illinois Commerce Commission.

"Law enforcement is a profession. Whatever we can do to upgrade the talent and skill of our law enforcement officers is a contribution to law and order and to better government."

Updating downtown Madison discussed

Improving, changing and updating the downtown area of Madison was the topic of the Madison Rotary Club meeting Wednesday in the Madison Recreation Center, with 50 members and guests in attendance.

Rotarian Mike Sasyk, Mayor of Madison introduced Allen W. Johnson of Greenville, Ill., a representative of Update, a firm specializing in rejuvenating and improving old downtown areas.

The program was presented as a part of the Community Development Committee's current efforts to improve the downtown area of Madison.

Johnson's firm has done 13 "Updates" in Illinois during the past two years. He showed slides of some of the work done in Pontiac, Taylorville, Bloomington, Woodstock and other Illinois cities.

The program graphically demonstrated "major improvements that can be accomplished with an old downtown area at a minimum cost."

Johnson explained that his company uses what they call "squatters' technique." If a city or merchants' organization wants its services the firm moves into the community, sets up an office so that it can communicate face to face with the business leaders and citizens in efforts to improve an area.

"A downtown must be attractive, convenient, well merchandised and a little exciting for the customer," Johnson related. "You need to know when you are in downtown, and you need attractive parking lots and no parking meters."

He said that some type of central theme with a coordinating type of store fronts, such as a western style also is needed. Similar type awnings and signs all help identify the fact a person is in the downtown area, he said.

Johnson noted the potential of making old buildings attractive and stylish with the right colors and some fresh paint.

Another area frequently neglected is the back of buildings, which can be turned into entrances from off street parking and made attractive with a little bit of paint, he said.

He emphasized the "change" does not come overnight but is accomplished by a series of small projects with the merchants and the citizens working together to improve their image.

Town hall job to start soon

Construction of an addition to the Nameoki Town Hall and remodeling of the present building should begin in the near future if weather permits.

The Nameoki Town Board, Auditors Monday night authorized Supervisor Louis Whitsett to sign a contract with Ed Moore Construction Co. to begin the work, which will cost $49,916. Construction should begin in the next few weeks, if Moore accepts the contract.

Moore was low bidder on the remodeling and addition which will add a section 30 feet long and 12 feet wide across the front of the existing building.

Work will include a new heating and air conditioning system for the entire building and a new roof over the existing building.

At Monday night's meeting, Moore noted that insurance regulations prohibit township employees or officials from walking through the construction area. The auditors agreed to pay the additional expense of having a temporary doorway built into the wall of the existing building for use during construction.

The board also agreed to pay the building's architect, John

Cohen, $24 per hour plus expenses and $8 per hour for clerical work for Cohen to supervise the construction for the township. Cohen's total pay for the job is not to exceed $800, it was agreed.

The town board of health was authorized to call a special meeting and to purchase a used truck from a township resident. The truck is needed to transport free workers under the county's Manager Training Grant to areas in which they are doing drainage work under the authority of the board of health.

Whitsett said the Illinois Commerce Commission would determine what type of device would be appropriate after a detailed study is conducted.

and Lake Drive north of Highway 162.

A township resident told the board he feels crossing lights would be better than gates at those crossings, which would allow autos to cross safely before slow-moving trains arrived at the crossings.

Whitsett said the Illinois Commerce Commission would determine what type of device would be appropriate after a detailed study is conducted.

Highway Commissioner Albert Bell was asked to investigate a federal program under which the government may pay up to 90 per cent of the cost of railroad crossing lights or devices at dangerous crossings.

The township and railroads would pay the remaining cost.

The township has been among groups attempting to have protection devices placed at the crossings of Mockingbird Lane

WHAT ABOUT RETIREMENT?

Make pension plans early

By FRANK CORRICK

Don't put off investigating the ins and outs of your retirement and pension plans. The time to begin thinking about is long before your farewell party, says the Institute of Life Insurance. Points to consider include:

"The age or length of time at work you have to reach to become eligible for a pension.

"How much money you will get when you retire.

"How much money plus Social Security you will need to live on comfortably.

"Provisions if any in your pension plan for early retirement.

"Other benefits that may continue after you retire, such as health insurance."

The Institute points out that if you are self-employed or if you work for a company and no pension plan is provided for you, you can set up your own private pension plan. For guidance in doing this, consult your life insurance agent, accountant or an attorney.

check with your agent about a reexamination. Life Insurance Companies are always glad to remove "ratings" from a policyholder no longer exists. The same applies to a policyholder changing from a risky occupation to a safe one.

The same applies if your health fails after the policy has been delivered to you.

Q. I recently retired but I'm not old enough for Social Security. Do I continue to pay into Social Security or do I freeze it? — K.M.M.

A. Neither. You pay Social Security taxes only if you are self-employed or working as an employee in a job covered by Social Security.

You can freeze your account only if you have quit working because of a serious disability and have worked the required length of time in employment covered by Social Security. Meeting that requirement would also make you eligible to receive monthly disability benefits.

Q. Prior to his death, my husband received Civil Service Retirement benefits but had not worked long enough to be eligible for Social Security. I worked myself at different times under Social Security starting in 1967 and I assumed that since I was a 60 year old widow when he died I could start collecting my Social Security. I was told I would not be eligible until age 62. — Mrs. I.G.S.

A. I'm afraid that is right. In order to collect widow's benefits at age 60 you would have to be eligible to receive benefits based on your husband's account.

You will be eligible to receive reduced retirement benefits at age 62 based on your own work.

Q. Since my husband is interested in real property what is the method used to describe the land? — Mrs. W.L.

A. The regular system is based on most of the United States Government's survey. A Metes and bounds reference to natural objects that are more or less permanent and well-known such as trees, hills and mountain ranges; rocks.

b. The system of meridians and parallels extending North and South, East and West. These meridians and parallels divide the region into townships, each township being divided into thirty-six sections, one square mile.

Your Title Insurance can assist you in describing the land.

Q. Two years ago, when I purchased my last life insurance policy, I was seriously overweight and my premiums were increased $5.00 for each thousand dollars of insurance. I am now back to normal weight. Do I still have to pay this extra premium? — G.C.

A. Unless there was some additional reason for your extra-rate premium, you should

Delores Vaughn becomes Mrs. Charles H. Cobb

Urn of poinsettias arranged with green ferns adorned the altar at the First Church of the Nazarene for the wedding of Dec. 31 of Miss Delores Ann Vaughn, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vaughn, 2 Briarcliff Drive, and Charles H. Cobb, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cobb, 2201 Glen Drive.

The Rev. Herbert Merritt performed the double ring ceremony at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Organist Mrs. Deloris Barker accompanied Brian Chastain as he sang "If," "We're Only Just Begun," and "Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the former Miss Vaughn chose a full length gown of nylon Chantilly lace.

The molded bodice was designed with a ruffled stand-up collar and leg-of-mutton sleeves. Pink insertion ribbon accented a wide gathered flounce encircling the skirt and bordered the waist train.

She wore a lace Juliet cap to secure an elaborate veil, and edged in matching lace, and she carried a cascade of white carnations interspersed with holly and poinsettias.

The maid of honor, Miss Joyce Pope, selected a pastel blue dress designed with long sleeves and a high neckline edged with lace and ribbon. The long skirt was gathered at the waist.

She wore a white picture hat trimmed with blue ribbon and held a bouquet of white carnations tinted blue.

Kim Anglin, a cousin of the groom, served as flower girl. She was dressed in a long white frock enhanced with blue and white lace and she carried a basket of rose petals.

Charles Parnley served as best man. Seating the guests were Chester Fetter and Don Grimes. Timmy Jackson was the ringbearer.

A reception was held in the church hall immediately following the service. Miss Anita Vaughn, a sister of the bride, and Floyd Pullam attended the guest book.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted at the Round Table Restaurant in Collinsville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vaughn chose an apricot knit gown, formal length. The groom's mother, Mrs. Cobb, was attired in a double knit dress in apricot and white.

The newly married couple is residing in Granite City following a wedding trip to the Missouri Ozarks.

Both are graduates of Granite City High School. The groom is employed at Schnucks Market.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding, included Mr. and Mrs. David Carter, Fatsy Kapales, Duane Borden, Mrs. Gladys Carter and Mrs. Bobbi Anglin, all of Walnut Ridge, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Scott Cobb of St. Charles, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hiles, Collinsville; Mrs. Mary Ann Schoy and son, David, Gillespie, Ill.; Mrs. Eileen Wade, Michael, Steven and Jerry Throckmorton of Viola, Ark.; Kenneth Throckmorton, Fort Campbell, Ky.

Mrs. Alice Baker and Catherine Baker of Whiteside, Mo.; Mrs. Mary Baker, Curryville, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGuire, Altamont, Ill.; Mrs. Betty Riden and family of Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.; Floyd Pullam, East Alton; Caroline

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES COBB, whose wedding was solemnized at the First Church of the Nazarene. The bride is the former Miss Delores Ann Vaughn, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vaughn, 2 Briarcliff Drive.

Sherrin, Dottie Bell, Mrs. Irma Manning, Mrs. Alberta Boltano, Mrs. Gloria Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Meyer and family, Linda Meyer and Fred Coe, all of St. Louis.

Retirees Chapter 1340 installs

The third annual meeting and installation of officers of the Granite City Chapter 1340, American Association of Retired Persons, Inc., was held in the 300 Room at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl.

Mrs. Vernice Wortman, the retiring president, presided and served as installing officer.

The 1975 officers include: Mrs. Vina Law, president; Mrs. Elma Hoover, vice president; Mrs. Grace Range, secretary; Mrs. Clara Schilling, treasurer; and board members, Edgar and Grace Paddock, Ruby Corbitt, Helen Bertach, Julia Mainor, Charles Kelly, Clyde Myers, Lowell Law, Caroline Lux and Mrs. Wortman.

Mrs. Law introduced newly appointed committee chairmen and announced a board meeting will be held on Jan. 22 at the Senior Citizen Center.

The regular meeting is scheduled for Feb. 12 at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl.

The president also reported the chapter will be responsible for serving at the center during the week of Feb. 24th.

Retiring committee chairmen reviewed activities, held during 1974, and those members whose birthdays occur in January were honored.

After the business session refreshments were served and games were played.

Mrs. Law said guests are welcome to attend meetings and those interested in joining the group may contact Mrs. Bertach, membership chairman, at 876-1563, for more information.

MISS BRENDA CUNNINGHAM, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Cunningham Jr., 1345 Franklin Ave., Collinsville, who are announcing her engagement to John LaPeire of Granite City. A March 14 wedding is planned.

Miss Cunningham to wed

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Cunningham Jr., 1345 Franklin Ave., Collinsville, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Brenda Cunningham, to John LaPeire, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Todd, 2612 Delmar Ave. Miss Cunningham, a 1971 Collinsville High School graduate, is employed as a computer operator at the Collinsville Building and Loan Association. She also is a sophomore at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she is majoring in physical education. The bride-elect is a past honored queen of Collinsville Bethel 42, Order of Job's Daughters. A graduate of Granite City High School, the prospective groom also graduated from SIUE in December with a major in business. He now works at Ernie's Standard Station. The engaged couple is planning a March 14 wedding.

SUMMER BRIDE-TO-BE, Miss Debra Jean Hodge, the fiancée of Thomas Craig Stephens. Their engagement and plans for an Aug. 1 wedding are being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hodge, 1532 Clark Ave.

Debra Jean Hodge to be married

Plans for the summer wedding at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church of Miss Debra Jean Hodge and Thomas Craig Stephens are being announced together with their engagement, by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hodge, 1532 Clark Ave. Their marriage will take place on Aug. 1.

Seed sale to aid birds, animals

Good quality wild bird seed will be offered for sale from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday by members of the Association for Protection of Animals in the arcade area at Bellemore Village Shopping Center. Inclement weather conditions underscore the need for supplemental food, such as seed, being placed outdoors for the birds. Mrs. Connie Becerra of the APA staff reminded local residents today. The Quad-Cities' humane group bought 1,400 pounds of bird seed and has repackaged it into four-pound sacks. Purchasers are being asked to contribute $1 for each four-pound sack. Proceeds from the sale will be used to help buy food supplies for the dogs and cats cared for by the APA at its shelter, located on the grounds of the Granite City Army Installation, Mrs. Becerra said. The Association for Protection of Animals is a non-profit organization which receives no financial assistance from outside sources, the APA officer explained. Operating expenses are defrayed by donations received from benefit sales, nominal fees asked from persons adopting APA animals as pets and personal contributions from members and friends, Mrs. Becerra advised.

Early Indians had a Garden of Eden here

(Editor's Note: The archaeological field school of Northwestern University is excavating and analyzing signs of Indian culture on a farm site in mid-Illinois. The Koster farm site became the largest project of seven in the area in 1969. Stuart Strueve, a Northwestern University professor of anthropology, is directing the work.)

By BOB FREUND

KAMPSVILLE, Ill. — Slowly scraping away the topsoil in a Downstate farm field, young investigators hunch over a plot of dirt six feet square.

They burrow meticulously, hoping to unearth secrets hidden by thousands of years of weathering.

The passing years have thrown a protective blanket of soil over the remnants of former civilizations here, and archaeologists from Northwestern University are peeling back nature's rich, brown wrapping.

The land near Kampsville, an Illinois River town, was once the home grounds of woodland Indians. Surface surveys have pinpointed close to 700 prehistoric communities in the area, seven of which have been excavated.

"Any time man occupies an area, he leaves his garbage," said Cynthia Covey, an archaeologist and volunteer lecturer for the school's anthropology program.

These biological leftovers reveal the lifestyles, habits, and social structures of former civilizations. The archaeologists' job at the 3,000-square-mile campus along the river is to piece together the evidence and form a picture of early man in Illinois.

The process is tedious. Starting at ground level, the archaeologists search in six-foot squares, exposing layers of soil three inches deep. Taking note of the geographical locations of any artifacts discovered, the soil is sifted, first visually and then through a screening table of one-half-inch mesh.

Approximately 60 per cent of the artifacts are left on top of the screen, and the others are picked out by hand from the strained soil. Eventually the remaining dust is disposed.

The sketch so far shows what Covey described as a "Garden of Eden" for Illinois' early inhabitants.

Living off the land without cultivated crops, the surrounding forests of nut trees dropped food on the ground, ripe for gathering.

Flocks of birds migrated along the Mississippi River flyway, much as they still do today.

More than 400 varieties of fish fed in the backwaters and inlets of the Illinois, and the natives trapped them in the shallows with nets.

And the limestone bluffs above the river provided shelter from wind, rain and, perhaps, enemies.

There is little doubt that the Midwest network of rivers was a lifeline of goods and travel for these early inhabitants, according to Covey.

Experts have discovered signs of trade, iron trinkets that probably were acquired from Lake Superior Indians who used the Mississippi as a commerce route.

From the Kampsville sites, 45 miles north of St. Louis near the confluence of the Illinois and Mississippi, signs of civilization follow the river routes to Ohio and north to Minnesota.

Many of the communities attracted larger populations, said Covey. Cahokia was heavily built up and the city may have grown to 40,000 people at one time, she said.

From skeletons the archaeologists deduce the life-styles of these early inhabitants who may have lived near Kampsville as late as 1000 A.D.

The average life-span seems to end in the early 40s. Although small in stature, some skeletons have documented Indians as tall as 6 feet 3.

Arthritis sometimes plagued the generally healthy civilization, but no epidemic seems to have driven the river dwellers away from their early Eden.

A major unresolved question — the reason for their exodus from the area — may never be uncovered. The archaeologists also are probing for a turning point in the Indian history, the advent of agriculture, in the layer cake of soil.

Still, the coloring of the dirt is revealing evidence of earlier and earlier communities of people. The reddish tint of the exposed ground is showing locations of fires and meal-making activities.

Blocks of dirt, hardened together, are allowing the tury searchers to reconstruct buildings, walls and even the main walkways of towns.

But the scientific studies could be most disturbed by the approach of modern civilization, Covey warned. Construction plans for roads and bridges spanning the rivers could erase some signs of the bluff dwellers, the Indians of the Illinois and Mississippi.

"We have life here, 7,000 to 8,000 years ago," she said, pointing at the map with a rusty trowel.

But, now, "time is rushing upon us; when man comes in, we'll lose our sites."

And with those sites, some evidence of as many as 15 prehistoric cultures may remain entombed beneath the Illinois landscape.

May end fines against cities

The Illinois Industrial Commission and Department of Labor announced today they are considering the issuance of a rule in regard to possible alternatives to monetary penalties for municipalities which have been cited for violations of health and safety standards.

The commission and the department are soliciting views of interested parties and have specified a 30-day period for written reaction to the proposal.

Suggestions about possible alternative penalties would be of chief interest.

The proposal was prompted by the problem arising from assessing fines against municipalities which may then pass on the fines to residents in the form of increased taxes or decreased services, a spokesman said.

Some safe recipes for a sweet tooth

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY, Registered Dietitian

Most people enjoy sweet treats and it is not inconceivable that fat people have a greater propensity for sugary tidbits than the slender.

We are "hooked" from childhood on ice cream sodas, chocolate bars and fudge. Sometimes they are used to assuage unhappiness, sometimes as a reward, most of the time because they just plain taste good.

There is nothing wrong with an occasional indulgence, and certainly childhood would be deprived if sugar treats were categorically denied.

Adulthood diminishes the desire for sweets in some people but others remain enslaved to the sap of the sugar cane. Frequent capitulations to the urge leads to an unhappy state of obesity.

There are ways to feed the sweet tooth without serving a dipper of ice cream over a piece of cherry pie. Let me give you some delightful recipes which will satisfy your desire for sweets and yet not endanger your shape.

APRICOT RUM WHIP: (You can substitute other fruits.) Drain 4 cans of diet apricots, reserve 3 or 4 for topping, and place the rest in a blender and puree. Beat 3 egg whites until stiff. Add 2 tablespoons of rum and 1 cup of non-dairy topping. Fold all together. Serve chilled, garnished with halves of the apricots you have set aside. Serves 6 to 8.

PETIT POTIS: Prepare 2 packages of plain or dietetic vanilla pudding according to directions on the package using 1/4 cup of rum (or a dash of rum flavoring in the milk) in place of the milk. Chill and serve with a slice of pineapple on top and sprigs of mint. Serves 6 to 8.

STRAWBERRIES ROMANOFF: Whip 2 cups of ice milk and fold in 1 cup whipped non-dairy topping. Add the juice of 1 lemon and 3 ounces Triple Sec over 8 cups of chilled strawberries. Add the cream mixture to strawberries and combine. Pile into tall glass serving dishes. Top each serving with 1 whole strawberry. Serves 8.

DIXIE PEACHES: Drain 8 large canned peach halves and dry on paper towel. Beat 3 egg yolks and combine with 16 small macaroons, crushed, and 1/4 cup of chopped English walnuts. Fill peach halves with mixture. To make meringue, beat the 3 egg whites until stiff, add 6 tablespoons of sugar and continue beating until meringue is stiff. Cover peaches with meringue and place, not touching each other, on a baking sheet. Bake at 325 degrees for about 20 minutes or until meringue is browned lightly. Cool to serve.

FUN FUDGE: 2 cups non-fat dry milk 1/2-1 tsp. powdered sugar substitute (or to taste) pinch of salt or salt substitute 1-2 tsp. vanilla extract (or to taste) 1/4-1/2 tsp. any flavoring extract (or to taste) few drops any food coloring - if desired 3-4 tsp. water to make fudgy consistency

Knead all ingredients together until smooth. Place in pan, refrigerate. Cut into 12 squares. Each square equals 1/2 cup of milk.

I have always known that fruit was healthful. A diet has come to my attention that is based almost entirely on fruit. If fruit is good for you, then this diet must be good for you, right?

Dear Miss L. L., Wrong. You can't knock fruit, but there are two fallacies in the diet you mention: 1. Fruit is high in carbohydrates. 2. No diet which concentrates on one type of food to the exclusion of others can be successful or healthy. Not long ago the "banana diet" was in vogue. Then the "grapefruit diet" caused waves. Both are inadequate as they do not provide the required nutrients.

Dear Shirley, It is my understanding that if you cut down on your food consumption, your stomach will eventually shrink, requiring less food. Is this true?

Dear Mrs. J. B., If you cut down on your food consumption, your stomach will shrink - from the outside - as you lose weight. The stomach organ itself does not shrink but adapts itself to require less food. This can come from conditioning your mind as well as your stomach.

Prevention is best control for cancer

By MARION WELLS

Those for whom cancer is synonymous with fear will be encouraged by the words of one American Cancer Society official: "Cancer prevention offers the greatest possibility for its control." Many authorities feel the action you take now may help defeat this enemy before it attacks. Various experts estimate that there may be some relationship between environmental factors and cancerous tumors up to NINETY PER CENT of the time. How can you reduce your cancer risk? First, if you make sure your diet contains enough roughage, there may be less chance of cancer "getting you by the back." Although all the findings are not in, increasing evidence suggests inadequate intake of fiber may be a contributing factor in cancer of the colon and rectum, which reportedly now strikes more Americans than any other major malignancy. Unrefined whole grain cereals and breads are considered a particularly good source of roughage. Other good sources include some fruits and such vegetables as broccoli, carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprouts and eggplant. If special medical conditions warrant, ask your physician's guidance in determining which sources of bulk are best for you. Do you smoke? You may be buying cancer by the pack. One government expert warned that "the risk of lung cancer increases in proportion to the number of cigarettes smoked. Among heavy smokers the risk is 20 times greater than among nonsmokers." "Banning the butt" lowers your risk. Incidentally, smoking also increases your chances of developing bladder, mouth and throat cancers. Is heavy drinking related to cancer? Concerning pharynx, larynx and mouth cancers, a recent government report on alcoholism notes that "tobacco use and alcohol consumption each contributes separately to increased risk of cancer, and data suggest that heavy use of both has an additive and possibly even a synergistic effect in increasing risk."

What about nutrient deficiencies and cancer? An apparent association has been reported between certain cancers and anemia and malnutrition. According to a United States Department of Agriculture report, "... individuals in good nutritional state are less likely to develop cancer." This same report estimates we might reduce cancer incidence and deaths by as much as 20 per cent simply by improving our diet. Do food additives add to our cancer risk? Processed, packaged items are loaded with so many additives that even scientists can't be sure how long-term exposure to a combination of these and other chemicals may affect our health. There is current concern about nitrite, added to many processed meats and some smoked fish. Under suitable conditions nitrite can react with certain amines (including many drugs) to form nitrosamines. The majority of nitrosamines tested can cause cancer in test animals. Experiments primarily with animals have created some concern that such potentially cancer-causing chemicals might be formed in the human system. In the personal professional opinion of Jacqueline Verrett, Ph.D., for years a researcher with the Food and Drug Administration, "... from all the evidence, the prudent assumption must be that when you ingest nitrite and amines at the same time or in close proximity, so that they remain in the stomach together long enough to interact, you run the risk of creating nitrosamines." The prudent procedure is to READ LABELS CAREFULLY, avoid nitrite (and nitrate) additives as much as possible, and also try to limit your intake of other added chemicals. To further increase cancer prevention potential, avoid unnecessary radiation exposure and overexposure to sun. Pick a living location away from heavily polluted areas if possible or, if necessary, investigate available air purification systems. Prompt attention to "pre-cancerous lesions" may keep them from becoming malignant. Consult your physician without delay if you notice any of the following: "... white patches on the lining of the mouth; dry, scaly, itching patches on the skin; moles subject to irritation; sores caused by jagged teeth or ill-fitting dental plates." Finally, have frequent medical checkups and cancer screening at recommended intervals. The next best thing to cancer prevention is EARLY DETECTION AND TREATMENT. Don't give cancer a chance to "grow on you."

Whitsell, Bell get raises

Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell and the township's highway commissioner, Albert Bell, were granted large increases in pay by the Nameoki Town Board of Auditors Monday night.

Auditor Norman Hessler, who has announced he is resigning from the board, made the pay raise motions in what was to have been his last meeting as an auditor. He later agreed to remain on the board until a successor can be chosen.

Hessler's idea first was brought to the board in a letter which noted the state last year extended the terms of the supervisor and highway commissioner two years so they can run with the auditors and save the cost of a separate election.

The letter also noted the state recently passed legislation allowing the salaries of the two officers to be raised to help compensate for inflation during the extra two years.

The special legislation was needed because state law normally prohibits pay raises unless granted by a board of officials to be elected in the next regular election.

Only newly elected or re-elected officials may receive increases in pay at the beginning of new terms.

Hessler suggested Whitsell's pay as supervisor of general assistance be doubled, from $3,900 to $7,800 per year.

That figure was trimmed by the board to $7,020. Whitsell also receives $1,716 per year for being township supervisor and $1,000 per year for being treasurer. The increase in his general assistance supervisor's pay gave him a 47 per cent increase, from the former total of $5,616 per year to the new total of $9,736.

Whitsell, who also works for a tool and die firm and who receives per diem pay as a member of the Madison County Board and several county committees, objected to the town board's attempt to raise his pay, saying he felt it is "morally wrong to increase the salary of an elected official until his successor qualifies." He voted against the raises for himself and for Bell.

Bell received an increase from the former $25 for each day he works to $35 per day. He normally works six days per week and formerly made about $7,800 per year as highway commissioner. The raise increases his salary to $10,920 per year, if he works six days each week. Bell has no specific hours.

A motion by Whitsell to convert Bell's pay from per diem to a regular salary of $10,920 per year failed for lack of a second to the motion.

Hessler also commented he feels the pay for the two officials still is below the pay received by officials of other counties and suggested the board again attempt to upgrade the pay before the next election

$3,710 burglary in Pontoon Beach

The apartment of Charles Rhoads, 4021 Gaslight Walk, Pontoon Beach, was entered and burglarized between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Tuesday of items totaling approximately $3,710.

Items taken included $1,060 in cash, which included ten $100 bills, eight guns valued at $1,365, a radio worth $260, stereo $125, tapes worth $101, a television worth $160, and one worth $129, jewelry $230, clothing $128, and shotgun shells valued at $32.

so officials elected in 1976 will receive pay more in line with that of officials of other townships.

Roadblock to aid March of Dimes

Passing motorists will be asked to aid the 1975 March of Dimes campaign at a roadblock to be sponsored Saturday by the Madison Junior Service Club.

Mrs. Shirley Clark, club president, said the roadblock will be operated with the assistance of the Madison Volunteer Fire Department on Madison Avenue at Sixth Street, beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Plans for the fund-raising event were completed at an executive board meeting held in the home of Mrs. Clark earlier this week.

Mrs. Clark said several club members were present at the March of Dimes kickoff dinner at the Collinsville VFW Post and were greeted by the 1975 March of Dimes Poster Child, Brian Edward Boston, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Boston of Livingston.

Attending the planning session were Shirley Doza, Fannie Fisk, Donna Dorris, Dorothy Smith, Maryann Kaminski, Carol Childers, Janet Schultz, Julia Voloski and June Boelling.

Arrest 4

Brian Volkert, 22, of 1728 Chestnut St., Jim Volkert, 26, who gave police no address, Carl Ziegler, 25, St. Ann, Mo., and James Vitale, 22, also of 1728 Chestnut St., were arrested in Kirkpatrick Homes at 12:20 a.m. Wednesday and charged with disorderly conduct. Brian Volkert and Vitale also were charged with theft.

Larry Matyas, 4666 Kirkpatrick Homes, alleged someone knocked at the door of his home and when his wife opened the door, four men forced their way in and began fighting with Matyas.

They were arrested near the home. About one hour later, a taxicab driver alleged that two men who had been passengers in his cab had stolen a bottle of liquor and two quarts of beer from a paper sack on the rear floorboard of the cab. The driver said he was to deliver the liquor to a home.

Car facts for lady drivers

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW ... ABOUT HER CAR; by Dorothy Jackson; Chilton Book Co.; 281 pages; $7.95 (cloth), $4.95 (paperback).

Reviewed by MURIEL BUCKLES

Men's libbers should protest the title chosen by Dorothy Jackson for she has written a book that could be useful to everyone who drives a car — with the exception of a master mechanic, perhaps.

It's natural that Jackson should alert her instructions to a feminine angle, though — she has been a professional auto mechanic for 31 years and has had to cope with manuals written solely for men who grow up knowing the nuts and bolts about carburetors and fan belts.

In her foreword, Dorothy Jackson states, "This book is intended to help people, mainly women, who know little or nothing about their car. It is not my intention to ridicule or make fun of your inexperience. Rather I will tell you plainly and simply some things that can save you a lot of trouble on the road, increase your knowledge of your automobile and make it easier for you to explain problems to your mechanic."

And she succeeds admirably at her stated task.

When you're through studying "What Every Woman Should Know ..." you'll be knowledgeable about everything from how to use jumper cables to how to avoid being ripped off by insurance companies. You won't be like the woman who complained her car wasn't running smoothly and when the mechanic said it sounded like one of her plugs was missing, said, "I don't remember losing it."

One especially handy feature of the book is a "Component Analysis Chart" giving the life expectancy, replacement or repair cost, the probable reasons for breakdown and how to prevent same. Who wouldn't like to have that information at her — or his — fingertips when talking repair costs with the corner garage?

In addition to the clear, detailed, nontechnical advice from Dorothy Jackson, there are over 80 instructive illustrations (all drawn by a woman).

MOTORWAYS Advice to winter drivers

By FRANK MACOMBER

Adequate tire tread, while it is important all year round, is essential during the winter months, when roads and highways are likely to be slippery. In most states, it's illegal to drive with tires having a tread depth of less than 32nds of an inch.

Remember, tires are your car's only contact with the road. Their condition determines how well your auto starts, stops and takes you around curves or through ice, water, snow and mud.

If you scream around corners or use jackrabbit starts, you rub off tread on the road and wear down the tires. Since tread is the chief element that keeps you from skidding on the highway, when it's worn away you may lose control, especially on wet pavement.

Even the chance of skidding on a dry road is up to 10 times greater with bald tires.

If you drive with a bald tire on a wet road, your auto actually may lift right off the surface. Since there are no tread grooves to allow water to drain at the tire rolls along, it actually "surfs" on the water.

If you doubt this, find out for yourself with two pieces of smooth plastic. A few drops of water between the plastic sheets will cause them to slide over one another the way a bald tire slides on a slick road.

A tire with less than 32nds of an inch of tread also is 50 times more likely to become a flat tire than one with ample tread, since it's easier for road hazards to penetrate a thin layer of tread rubber.

Another winter problem confronting drivers — even many who have been motorists for years — is cold weather starting. John W. Bonnell, Los Angeles district manager of the Ford customer service division, has some suggestions about winter starts and how they will save fuel.

First, he advises, read or reread the "how to start your car" section of the owner's manual.

"It's amazing how many drivers still retain out-of-date notions about how to start their cars," Bonnell says. "My guess is that we could go a long way toward reaching President Ford's announced goal of a 3 per cent reduction in fuel use just by proper adherence to the manufacturers' starting procedures for varying climatic conditions and engine temperatures."

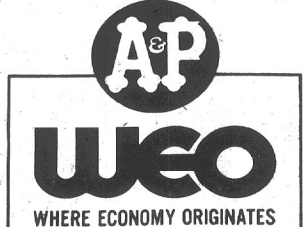

For instance, he explains, most Ford cars require only a single depression of the throttle when the engine is cold, rather than repeated pumping. With a hot engine your manual may recommend a slight pressure on the accelerator to help starting. In extremely cold weather, however — below 10 degrees Fahrenheit — most car makers recommend that you push down the throttle once to enrich the fuel mixture before going through the rest of the recommended starting cycle.

"Properly started, an engine doesn't require the one, two and sometimes three pumps of the accelerator pedal that has become an ingrained habit with most drivers as they start out each day," says Bonnell.

"Eliminating this habit alone could save more than a dollar a week in gasoline costs, especially at today's prices."

You'll also find "Be Aware" shelf tags on many frequently purchased items with the day of the price increase right on the tag. Are tonsil, adenoid operations necessary?

By IRWIN J. POLK, MD, MPH

"I'm going to the hospital for a party," said my 10-year-old neighbor shaking her blond curls. "It's a coming-out party for my tonsils." I wished her luck and as it turned out, she needed it. Her tonsil operation went along well, but the day after the operation she began to bleed from the site and needed several units of blood plus an extra week in the hospital for full recovery.

Tonsillectomy, the operation by which the tonsils are removed, is not without risk to the patient. Tonsils are collections of lymphoid tissue located at the back of the throat on each side. Above the tonsils but hidden from view by the palate, are the adenoids, smaller sacks also containing lymphoid tissue. The work of the tonsils is not completely understood, but these organs are generally thought to be filters for the germs which cause throat infections as well as factories for the making of antibodies which fight disease.

Operating on tonsils is a relatively easy task since the tonsils are readily accessible and visible through the open mouth. Tonsillectomy is usually done as a surgical dissection, but occasionally the tissue is destroyed by freezing, using a cold metal probe. Often the adenoids are removed at the same time in a combined operation called "tonsillectomy and adenoidectomy" or "T. and A." for short. T. and A. is probably the operation most frequently done in this country. About a million such operations are done here each year. But all doctors do not agree that such operations are necessary. Despite the frequency with which the operation is performed, some of the basic questions about it remain unanswered.

The most important question is, of course, whether or not T. and A. is helpful. Does tonsillectomy reduce susceptibility to sore throat, colds, and other problems of the upper respiratory tract? Does removing the adenoids really improve the health of the middle ear and prevent loss of hearing? One recent study showed that about 80 per cent of patients had improvement in the health of the middle ear after the adenoids were removed. On the other hand, another study suggested that patients who have undergone tonsillectomy may be more susceptible to Hodgkin's disease, a form of cancer.

In an effort to answer these questions, there is a study under way now at the Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh. This is the first study designed to evaluate T. and A. in a prospective fashion. In this study, children who are candidates for T. and A. will be divided into two groups. One group will have the operation while the other group will be observed rather than operated. Of course, if a patient in the observation group is marked by uncomfortable, endangered or handicapped by the condition, the child will be operated on anyway.

Children are included in the study for several criteria. Three bouts of tonsillitis a year for three years in a row will be reason to include the child in the study. So will five attacks a year for two years, or seven episodes in a single year. For adenoidectomy, the criteria are obstruction of the nose not due to allergy, or middle ear infection which persists even after plastic tubes have been inserted through the ear-drum to drain the fluid. Each child will be examined every six weeks or more often if respiratory illness occurs. Trained clerks phone each family every other week with a list of questions about such symptoms as minor cough, runny nose or reduced physical activity.

Thus far, there are about 400 children being followed in this study at Children's Hospital. The study is being funded by the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development at present, but there is interest in the evaluation being shown by others at the National Institutes of Health. So it is possible that in the near future, a large-scale project will be established of nationwide scope in an effort to find answers to the questions still open after hundreds of years and millions of cases of tonsillectomy.

Thin ice can trap unwary

By ART SCHUMANN

Love is... never telling your spouse you are freezing during an ice fishing outing.

Or, maybe love is... having the common sense to know when you've had enough of a cold day on the ice.

In any case, there was a time when only the most hardy sportsmen would ice fish during the winter. And, just a few years ago, those who saw sportsmen out on the ice believed ice fishermen had a case of the crazies.

This, fortunately, is no longer the case. The sport of ice fishing has skyrocketed in popularity during the last few years and today it's an activity enjoyed by the entire family.

Besides the sport itself, the prime reason is the development of cold weather clothing, which allows the angler and his family to spend the day on the ice in relative comfort despite subfreezing temperatures.

Warmth without weight is the keynote of today's cold weather clothing. Although much progress was made during World War II and the Korean War, the greatest advancements were brought about by the growing popularity of the snowmobile.

Snowmobile suits are extremely popular among ice fishermen and the suits are available in all sizes.

During the winter it's a common sight to see ice fishermen and their families enjoying cookouts out on the ice. The flavor of fish is excellent when taken from cold water.

The fish flesh is white and firm and little deterioration takes place as compared to warm weather months. Fish can be caught and dropped onto the ice, where they usually freeze quickly.

Ice fishermen generally have to thaw out the fish to clean them. And, with the cost of meat these days, ice fishing has another benefit. It doesn't hurt to have a quantity of fish in the freezer.

Ice fishermen don't need a lot of tackle. Standard gear usually consists of a galvanized pail in which to place the fish, a few ice fishing rods, an ice spud or auger to make the hole in the ice, a lantern for warmth and light and some bait. Additional gear depends on the individual's preferences.

Live bait is usually available at most sporting goods stores and bait shops. The most popular live bait are minnows (larvae of the fruit fly), spikes and wigglers.

As for safety, it's essential ice fishermen remember they are standing on thin ice—literally. It's a good idea to carry a pole or a rope in case the ice cracks.

The most important thing to remember is not to take chances. There are plenty of properly frozen areas.

Prices good thru Saturday Night, Jan. 18 at Kroger Stores in Dayton, Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland, Detroit, Kansas City, Louisville, Memphis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Louis, St. Paul, and St. Petersburg. Subject to applicable laws and local sales tax.

State tries to help its gifted children

By MARY LOU MANNING

SPRINGFIELD — Albert Einstein was 4 years old before he could speak and 7 years old before he could read.

Wait Disney was once fired by a newspaper editor because he had "no good ideas."

Louis Pasteur was deemed "mediocre" in chemistry while attending the Royal College.

Witness the plight of the gifted child in today's system of education:

"A conservative estimate of the gifted and talented population ranges from between 1.5 and 2.5 million children out of a total elementary and secondary school population of 51.6 million (1970 figures)," according to Sid Syman, assistant director of the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction's gifted program.

"However, the results of a survey of all U.S. schools conducted four years ago indicated that nearly 98 per cent of all the schools reported that they had no gifted pupils." Herewithin lies the problem. The gifted children are there but it's difficult to find them. It's also difficult to define them.

"This office has defined gifted children as 'those children who consistently excel or show the potential to consistently excel above the average in one or more areas of human endeavor,'" he explained. The six areas of acceleration include: general intellectual ability, specific academic aptitude, creative thinking, leadership ability, visual and performing arts ability, and psychomotor ability.

"It is possible that a child may be gifted in one or more of these areas," Syman said. "It is also important to point out that a gifted child in Cairo may not be considered a gifted child in Chicago."

The state school office estimates there are approximately 100,000 gifted children, or 5 per cent of the school population, in Illinois. To label a child as "gifted," three identification criteria must be used.

"We are not interested in placing the label of 'gifted child' on a student," he stressed. "But we must identify them in order to reach them."

The state's Gifted Program, mandated in 1963, consists of five components: training, experimental, service centers, reimbursement, and state staff.

"A large part of our program is carried out via nine Area Service Centers located throughout the state," the educator said. "Personnel in the centers provide assistance to schools which have gifted programs. They also are involved in the program's training component."

This school year, some 430 Illinois schools districts — about half — have gifted programs. Each spring districts desiring to participate in the gifted program must submit an application to the state school office. If it is approved, they receive state funds based on a set formula. No federal funds are expended for the gifted program.

"The amount of reimbursement to school districts varies from year to year," he continued. The money is appropriated each year by the General Assembly, with $3 million set for this school year. Each school district involved in the gifted program gives about it a little different. There are no mandatory ways in which a program must be carried out, but there are guidelines.

"We encourage 'mainstreaming,' or serving the needs of the gifted child within the regular classroom," Syman said. "However, some classes are segregated from the rest of the classrooms."

"What is essential is that each child be assessed as to what is the appropriate type of instruction for him. Then a suitable program is built around this individual need."

Syman pointed out that it is important to identify a gifted child as early as possible, before he starts to school if the district has a preschool program.

"If a gifted child is not caught by the fifth or sixth grade, oftentimes he doesn't want to stand out from his peers and tried to disguise his talents. He often winds up mediocre."

Vitamin flap continues

By BENJAMIN SHORE

WASHINGTON — If you're looking for a use or controversy to consume some excess energy in 1975, have you considered The Great Vitamin Flap?

You may recall that in August, 1973, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration proposed regulations that would tightly control the therapeutic claims that could be made for vitamin preparations, require certain high concentrations of vitamins to be labeled as drugs, and impose other restrictions.

The FDA's action came in the wake of great publicity about the alleged wonders of vitamin C as protection against the common cold when taken in huge quantities.

Nobel Prize-winning scientist Linus Pauling gave the claim credibility when he said he's been taking 3,000 milligrams daily for years and hasn't had a cold. (The FDA says 60 mg. are all you need for good health.)

Soon celebrities, from athletes to actors, were into the megavitamin scene, guinea pigs like candy and attesting to their invigorating effects, including sexual potency. Business picked up at health food stores and mail-order vitamin houses.

But the FDA had come to the conclusion after seven years of study that the therapeutic claims for what it considered excessive amounts of vitamins, especially in combination with other alleged nutrients, were in large part misleading and thus constituted a form of consumer fraud by some manufacturers and retailers.

The FDA's main point is that the diet of most Americans contains sufficient natural vitamins. The FDA argues that there is no medical validity to the megavitamin claims, and that for some persons such consumption could be harmful.

The $350-million-a-year vitamin industry objected vigorously, and the fight was on. In late 1973 and into 1974, Congress was flooded with mail protesting the proposed regulations. Much of the mail was instigated by the California-based National Health Federation, which says it believes in the "freedom of choice now and always exercised by American citizens as to their diet" and opposes "diet dictation" from Washington.

A majority of the House and Senate responded to the deluge of mail by introducing legislation that would order the FDA to drop its vitamin regulations except in cases where it had proof that excessive amounts could cause harm to human health (as in the case of regulations on vitamins A and D).

Stormy hearings were held on Capitol Hill, but the bills to regulate the regulators died for lack of action in the 93rd Congress. They are expected to be reintroduced early in the 94th.

Girl Scout 313 donates layettes

Girl Scout Troop 313 of Parkview School agreed last fall to plan a program and earn money for a special project, signifying a different approach to the Christmas season than previously arranged as a group activity.

In keeping with their plan, troop members toured nearby neighborhoods and sang Christmas carols to earn sufficient funds to purchase these complete baby layettes.

The infant clothing items were donated to the Quad-City Church Women United for their continuing project of furnishing layettes to needy expectant parents.

Troop leaders Mrs. Sonya Niemeyer, Mrs. Diane Zarlingo and Mrs. Sandy Peterson assisted the girls in making the purchases.

Each gift layette included two dozen diapers, three blankets, six gowns, two shirts, two bottles, two pairs of plastic pants, two safety pins, a small toy and a copy of "Good News for Modern Man."

Troop 313 members also are making toys for the project which will aid the Church Women United program and fulfill the toymaking badge requirement, one of the scouting skills being encouraged.

A regular business meeting of the club will start at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, followed by the "luncheon" and style show. The latter will be presented by Marilyn's House of Fashion, Mrs. Clark said.

New realty firm established here

A new real estate firm — King & Hoffman Realty — has been opened here with offices at 1367 Niedringhaus Ave., marked in her driveway, it was reported at 4:35 a.m. Tuesday. A vent window was pried open to allow a car door to be unlocked from the outside.

A 23-channel citizens' band radio was stolen from the auto of Deloris Lawson, 2816 Marshall Ave., parked in her driveway, it was reported at 4:35 a.m. Tuesday. A vent window was pried open to allow a car door to be unlocked from the outside.

Persons wishing to enroll in either program should contact the SUIE Student Development Services at the university as soon as possible since registration will be limited. Times for the sessions have not yet been determined.

All-out Democratic primary struggle seems likely in '76

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

Is there a political future for Michael J. Bakalis?

The 36-year-old DeKalb resident, who bowed out this month as Illinois' last elected state school superintendent, has made it clear that he would like to run for political office again someday.

At several press conferences, he thrust himself into the future political picture by hinting he might challenge Gov. Dan Walker in the 1976 Democratic primary.

The immediate reaction beneath the Statehouse dome was that Bakalis might be setting his immediate political sights a little too high.

That there is going to be a major primary opposition to Walker next year is now virtually taken for granted at the Capitol.

But what is contemplated is an anti-Walker coalition involving such party powers as Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett and Downstate legislative leader Clyde Chouteau.

The reasoning goes that the coalition will form behind a single candidate, either Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan or State Treasurer Alan Dixon.

Bakalis' mention of a primary bid of his own has disturbed the anti-Walker faction. Entrance of a third candidate could aid the incumbent governor in any primary scramble.

There is a feeling among party professionals that Bakalis is greatly over-estimating his own political importance. He has run just once for statewide office, defeating incumbent Supt. Ray Page in 1970 by a landslide 473,261 votes.

But it is pointed out that the vote was not so much an endorsement of Bakalis, since he was virtually unknown at the time, but a protest vote against Page, who had come under widespread criticism for his administration of the office.

Also, 1970 definitely was a Democratic year and Adlai E. Stevenson won a U. S. Senate post over the late Republican Ralph T. Smith by 545,336 votes.

This year, Sen. Stevenson, although winning re-election by a large margin, nevertheless ran substantially behind Treasurer Dixon.

Bakalis would stand little chance of winning the 1976 nomination in a three-way race, but he might well drain off enough anti-Walker votes to weaken the coalition candidate and permit Walker to win renomination.

Would Bakalis stand any chance of becoming the coalition candidate? Very little. During his four years in the state office, he established a reputation as an independent.

To many organization Democrats, placing Bakalis in the governor's office would be tantamount to replacing Walker with another Walker. This is the last thing Daley and other regular Democrats want.

What is quietly suggested at the Statehouse is that Bakalis fulfill his political ambitions by running for another office, possibly Congress. A victory in a Chicago district could open the way for a future buildup for governor, perhaps in 1978 or later. The 1976 gubernatorial term will be two years.

At 36, Dr. Bakalis has a lot of time.

Meanwhile, that bruising Democratic fight over the speakership has convinced almost everyone at the Statehouse that an all-out Democratic primary struggle in 1976 cannot be avoided.

Although neither seemed to be emerging a clean winner, instead having to settle for compromise in the end, Daley and Walker intensified their mutual bitterness.

More and more Democrats are convinced that Daley will not close his political career until he has removed Walker from office. Recent days have seen a sharp increase in feeling that Walker can be beaten in the next primary.

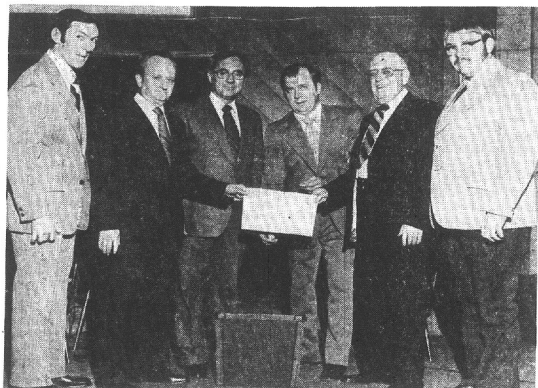

But it is also conceded that a tough, well-financed and carefully-handled campaign will be necessary to do the job — and to keep the party intact for the November showdown with the Republicans, expected to be hale and hearty by then.

THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD: HOW TO BUILD A STATE

Few corporations have had such tangible and lasting influence on the development of a state as did the Illinois Central Railroad. It literally built Central Illinois. From the outset, it promised wealth to local producers through connection with the national market, to real estate owners and other businesses through the growth or creation of towns and cities, and to those people it might employ. It was also very exciting to have a new railroad in a prairie town. In balance, all these promises were fulfilled.

The railroad laid out towns every 10 miles along its largely uninhabited route. Main streets led to the depots. North-south streets were numbered and east-west streets were named for trees. The names of the towns themselves commemorated people or activities of the corporation.

Illustrative of its influence, by 1884 the Illinois Central had directly influenced the naming of 32 towns and villages along its more than 700-mile route. Beginning in Chicago the Illinois Central chugged south to Grand Crossing, named for the many rail lines that intersected there. Next stop was Burnside, named for General Ambrose Burnside, one-time cashier and later treasurer of the Illinois Central. George Pullman's feudal enclave came next, followed by Riverdale. J. F. Tucker, Illinois Central general superintendent, named the next stop for himself.

Other cities enshrined the memory of George Danforth, purchaser of large blocks of Illinois Central land; Sam Gilman, builder of 53 miles of track; Buckley, station agent; Thomas Ludlow and Robert Rantoul, Illinois Central incorporators; Samuel Jarvis Haynes, superintendent of machinery; William Mattoon, a Terre Haute and Alton contractor; George Watson, division superintendent; Col. Roswell Mason, division engineer; Richard Cobden, a British shareholder; Richard Haldane, station agent; Lawrence Heyworth, British stockholder; Robert Forsyth, general freight agent; S. W. Walker, Elia Dunkel, and William Vernon. At times the company abandoned the last names of its employees and shareholders and chose more romantic names. Neoga, a word meaning "place of the Deity," was named before any thought was given to an actual city. William Ferguson, an Illinois Central agent in London, chose the Indian name Tamora; and George Watson and R. B. Mason, with future communities already bearing their own names, christened Waukegan and Nora.

Echoes of far-away places came to the Illinois prairies with the founding of Potosi, named by an Illinois Central agent for explorer Marco Polo. A sailor-turned-railroad agent named Woonsocket, T. B. Blackstone, president of the Chicago and Alton, named Mendota; and Centralia proved an apt description of a town platted by the Illinois Central as its southern machine shop. The lure of the railroad was strong enough to induce the village of Homo to change its name to Sublette to correspond to the name of the Illinois Central station.

The railroad age in Illinois has long since passed its golden years. Planes carry the passengers and trucks carry the freight. But the changes wrought in Central Illinois by the Illinois Central railroad live on.

FIREARMS ID CHARGE
Walter E. Griffith Sr., 50, of 2537 North St., has been ordered to appear in Madison County Circuit Court Feb. 7 for a hearing on a charge of failing to have valid firearms identification.

A complaint was signed by the Security Office of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville after he was arrested Dec. 28. Officers said a man was carrying a 20-gauge shotgun on the supporting services road on the campus.

Hypnosis program at SIUE

Student Development Services at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer two programs in hypnosis and meditation during the winter quarter.

A program to develop memory retention skills will be offered to students, staff, and faculty. The program is designed to help students having difficulty concentrating on their work.

Once students are able to concentrate, their grades will improve, according to Raymond Klauber, counselor. "They can control their thoughts and mind processes. They will be able to think positively and will no longer be afraid of tackling their work," he said.

Another session will be offered to SIUE staff and faculty who wish to stop smoking.

Economic workshop scheduled

A workshop in economic education for teachers and administrators in the St. Louis metropolitan area will be held at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Jan. 28. The one-day conference, sponsored by the Office for Economic Education in the School of Business, will be held in the Mississippi-Illinois Rooms of the University Center from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

During the morning session Michael MacDonnell, executive director of the Illinois Council on Economic Education, will discuss "Economic Education in Illinois." John Clow, from the SIUE department of business education, will talk on "Consumer Education: The Personal Economics Approach."

Activities during the afternoon session will include

State contends many pre-packaged foods weigh less than price charged

State Agriculture Director Robert J. "Bud" Williams today urged Illinois retailers to "help in the fight against inflation by making sure that prepackaged foods contain the full measure shown on the label."

Since October, more than 90 stores have been charged with selling short-weight prepackaged food, Williams said. The cases have been and are being turned over to the state's attorney's office by the department's Division of Agriculture Industry Regulation.

Williams said his Bureau of Standards has found that about 20 per cent of all stores they inspected were sufficiently incorrect in their packaging and warrant notification of the state's attorney's office in the county.

He said that, so far, about a dozen counties have been involved. Many complaints came to the department's attention through calls from consumers, Williams said.

The director said that although the shortages usually have not been great and are virtually impossible to notice without reweighing, they "still add up to a lot over a period of time."

He said, "Half-ounce shortages on 200 pieces of prepackaged food a day could add up to $2,500 worth of meat by the end of a year at today's prices."

In this supermarket, all the packaged food the department's inspectors checked was found short and ordered re-weighed, Williams said. Such short-weighing is a violation of Chapter 147, Section 156 (5) of the Illinois Revised Statutes, he added.

The director said that the department now has two teams checking pre-packaged food, and cross training of other regulatory personnel will soon increase inspections. He also urged each consumer to make checks for himself of the food he buys.

"Anyone who feels he has been short-weighted should contact the department. Our inspectors will investigate and, if necessary, stop the sale of improperly weighed products," he said.

Students may enter artworks for state show

A statewide collection of student art will be on exhibit during March at the Illinois State Museum, in Springfield. The exhibition, which will be assembled by the Illinois Alliance for Arts Education, will be a highlight of Youth Art Month in Illinois.

Any Illinois student in kindergarten through twelfth grade may submit artwork for the exhibit.

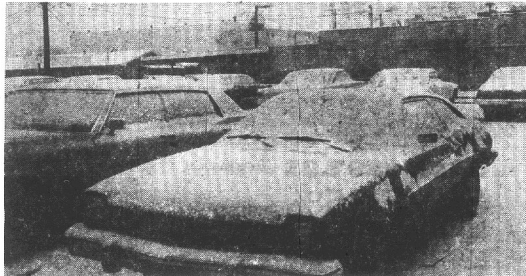

All work must be submitted through the student's school art department, and must arrive at the Center for the Visual Arts at Illinois State University by Feb. 18.

A five-member jury of students, artists, and art educators will select works to be displayed. The exhibit later will become part of the Illinois exhibit in a national showcase of student art at the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

For further information about the exhibit specifications for entries, those interested may contact Larry L. Emmons, Art Education Specialist, Illinois Office of Education, 316 S. 2nd St., Springfield, 62706.

The Alliance for Arts Education was formed to "promote quality arts experience for all students throughout the state."

Further information about the alliance may be obtained from Dr. Forrest Sycott, president, Alliance for Arts Education, School of Fine Arts, Western Illinois University, Macomb, 61455.

Miss Russell in Jamaica

A total of 418 students enrolled in the January interim term at McKendree College, Registrar Jo Ann Montague has announced.

The interim courses, which concluded on Jan. 24, are similar to the internship programs of other universities, where a student studies in areas related to his or her major.

McKendree's 4-1-4 calendar of two four-month terms separated by a one-month interim term allows the student flexibility not offered to students attending college on a quarter basis.

The large number of students enrolled this month represents a sizable increase over last year, when 318 individuals were registered.

Nineteen education-sociology students are currently visiting the Caribbean nation of Jamaica, where they are touring schools and cultural institutions and reporting on their observations.

Nine students are studying in Europe to complete requirements in the Fine Arts Department. The course, a study in Germanic and Italian culture, is structured to give students first-hand knowledge

Retired education volunteer program is proposed in state

By MARY LOU MANNING
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

"Wanted: retired Illinois teachers who wish to share their knowledge and, at the same time, keep active."

"Although the pay is nonexistent, or in some cases, nominal, the chances for rewards are many."

If the proposed Retired Teachers in Education program gets the approval of the State Board of Education, those interested in the above hypothetical want ad will get a chance to follow through.

The program, developed by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction with cooperation from the Illinois Retired Teachers Association (IRTA), would give retired teachers jobs within the OSPI, local school districts and state education agencies.

"Although most of the jobs would involve volunteer work, in some cases we would encourage travel and lunch expenses," explained Darrell Elder, assistant director of OSPI's teacher placement unit.

A few jobs would involve nominal pay, such as substitute teaching, tutoring or serving on state visitation teams.

Elder, who has been working on the plan for the past two years, said there are about 25,000 retired teachers receiving Illinois pension benefits.

Of this number, 17,000 reside in the state, one of the qualifications for participation in the program. Also excluded from participation would be those over 85 years of age.

The IRTA, whose membership numbers over 7,000, held four meetings throughout the state last fall. During the gatherings, Elder presented the plan to the retired educators.

"The interest was high," he said. "A good half of them were already engaged in some type of volunteer work, such as with schools, hospitals, nursing homes, etc."

"Of course, we realize that some retired teachers are not interested in returning to the field of education," Elder continued. "I encourage these people to contact local agencies to see where they might be needed."

Elder said that various agencies within OSPI have expressed a need for help from the retired teachers. For example, the public information section could use retirees to proofread or clip and file newspaper articles, the school foods section could use some expertise in preparation of a home-economics manual, and the school approval section could employ them as members of school visitation teams.

"This would be of great interest to those retired teachers living within the Springfield area," Elder pointed out. "We also hope to involve some of them in our Chicago and Mount Vernon offices."

Outside the OSPI framework, Elder hopes to promote the use of "senior teachers" in local school districts and other education organizations. In fact, many school districts already draw on the experience of the retired teachers.

"Retired teachers are already used as substitutes and part-time teachers," he explained. "I have been contacted by the Springfield district for help in locating more of them. They already use more than 100 as the retired teachers."

The former state school superintendent, Michael J. Bakalis, encouraged the State Board to adopt the program.

"These persons (retired teachers) represent a pool of knowledge and experience that should not be wasted just because they have reached some arbitrary age," Bakalis said. "School districts need help."

They need teacher aides, tutors, library helpers, teachers for homebound students. "And they cannot afford to hire enough full-time people to fill these needs," he continued. "All these things a retired teacher can do and can do expertly."

If adopted, the program will be coordinated through IRTA offices.

17-year-olds may give blood

Under a new state regulation, signed into law by Gov. Dan Walker on Dec. 30, approximately 225,000 Illinois 17-year-olds are now eligible to donate blood. The previous minimum age for blood donors was 18 years of age. Dr. Joyce Lashof, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, explained that, according to census estimates, there are 6,324,000 persons in Illinois between the ages of 18 and 66. "By adding 225,000 17-year-olds to this pool of potential blood donors," she said, "the Governor has created a cushion of potential donors to replace those who, within the next few years, will exceed the eligible age or fail to meet the medical requirements." To meet the medical requirements, blood donors must be in general good health and must never have had hepatitis. Dr. Lashof said that any 17-year-old who wishes to donate blood should contact his or her local blood donor facility to register as an available donor.

Liberal group pleased with voting by Stevenson, Percy

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

Like several students of batting averages, fans of the political numbers game may find voting records compiled by Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) instructive in judging last session's performance of Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., and Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

ADA gives "liberal quotients" on key votes reflecting its liberal orientation. It selected 21 domestic and foreign issues in the last session of the 93rd Congress, including, among others, campaign financing, no-aid insurance, consumer protection, capital punishment, school busing, aid to Indochina and military spending.

Stevenson is the perfect liberal by ADA standards. He scored 100 per cent along with two other Democrats, Philip A. Hart of Michigan and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, a possible Presidential contender who made a 95 the year before.

Stevenson has perfected his liberal credentials since the first session of the 93rd Congress, when ADA rated him at 85 per cent. He was "right" then on 17 of 20 key votes.

Percy by ADA lights has also improved his standing in the second session. He's up seven points over the first session.

ADA gave Percy 67 per cent for voting "right" 14 times out of 21 last year. He got 60 per cent for 12 "right" in 20 votes in the first session.

Percy's 67 ranks him as the leading liberal contender among the possible Republican Presidential candidates, notes ADA, assessing Tennessee's William Brock and Howard Baker at 44 each.

Scores of the Democratic Presidential prospects are: Muskie, 100; Gaylord Nelson, Wis., 86; Hubert Humphrey, Minn., 81; George McGovern, S.D., 76; Birch Bayh, Ind., and Frank Church, Idaho, 67; Henry Jackson, Wash., 62; and Lloyd Bentsen, Tex., 38.

Percy's United Nations attendance cut his voting record but he indicated opposition twice and support once for ADA positions. His voting intention was unclear on one absence.

This left Percy with three anti-ADA votes: against a tax reform rider Edward Kennedy hooked onto an unrelated military survivors' tax bill, a William Proxmire amendment to disclose CIA funding for U.S. intelligence activities, and a 76,000 overseas troop cut proposed by Mike Mansfield.

Sen. Charles M. Mathias Jr., Md., scored 86 per cent to retain title as the most liberal Republican the second year in a row.

Five other Republicans finished with high scores: Richard Case, N.J., Richard Schweiker, Pa., and Jacob Javits, N.Y., each a legislative running mate of Percy's, all 81; and Edward Brooke, Mass., and Mark Hatfield, Ore., 78.

Ten senators, all Democrats, scored 90 or better while nine Republicans finished with zero.

The Senate's 58 Democrats, including Harry Byrd Jr., Virginia independent, averaged 90, two percentage points below the first session.

The 42 Republicans, including

James Buckley, New York conservative, boosted their average to 31, up five points from the year before.

The Senate score overall was 48, down a point from the first session.

The nine Republicans scoring zero clearly are undecidable troglodytes. They will, however, emerge as statesmen of the first rank when the Americans for Constitutional Action (ACA) puts out its conservative ratings soon.

Then Stevenson's heroic ADA role will be recast. To ACA, he will be beyond the pale.

Percy? He'll probably struggle along as liberal to moderate.

Both Percy and Stevenson, let it be said, detest the political numbers game.

A total of 21 Nobles, their ladies, and special guests attended the event. Other Compacts in attendance were Lloyd Lewis, Howard Bolton, Gene Ross, Walter Blankenship, Bill Kincaid, Tracy Lakin, Ed Lane, Clarence Hoffman, Al Woodard, Bob Wolford and Jerry Adams.

Ethnic unity seen as way to achieve the American dream

The democratic process is missing in many areas of American society, in the opinion of Joyce Aschenbrenner, associate professor of anthropology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Miss Aschenbrenner was the principal speaker at SUE at the fifth session of the 1974-75 University Seminar at Edwardsville (USE), held during the weekend.

Representing the SUE School of Social Sciences, she talked on the subject, "Ethnicity and American Society." She was assisted by John Harvey, the SUE presidential scholar representing the School of Social Sciences.

Prof. Aschenbrenner urged her audience "to ponder the true meaning of the American dream, the right to be human in the way one chooses and to pursue the good life as one defines it... which could be rediscovered and actualized in our lifetime."

The SUE anthropologist defines ethnicity in the broad sense as "referring to shared normative behavior among those who identify in groups which interact with other like groups within one society."

In the narrow sense, she defines it as "referring to people with a common origin, history, shared values and customs, and interacting with other similar groups within a society."

Prof. Aschenbrenner believes "Americans need to be aware of the powerful social potential of ethnicity, both in the narrow and in the broad meaning, in our society, in order to effect social change and progress for all citizens."

Only where human needs and interests can be expressed can they be met. And they can best be expressed in the institutions of family, friendship and community.

"Only where public institutions are responsive to family and community can the needs of people be met; this is the essence of political democracy," she said.

The seminar speaker opposes the settlement of conflicts of interests between groups by violence or intimidation. "These conflicts can be settled by political means," she said.

"This is what the political process is all about."

"Political conflict results in compromise, with important interests recognized on both sides. On the other hand, intimidation, threats and violence lead to the subordination of one set of interests to another, or the subordination of both, while a third party gains control."

"All of these signal the absence of political democracy."

The speaker charged that U.S. citizens are taught many "myths" in school. "For example, the one man equals one vote equation is a misrepresentation," she said.

"Only in conjunction with other interests in an interest group or in coalitions does one person's vote have any real meaning."

"Further, citizens often cannot vote on the real issues: Thus, we must vote for the candidates who have adequate financing to carry on a campaign, that is, control the media," she continued.

"Once these candidates are elected, they are subjected to pressures of powerful interest groups who have the resources to influence them."

The anthropologist declared, "Power-seeking demagogues manipulate us through spurious issues, such as busing, red-baiting and welfare cheating, in the process obscuring the real issues of power and robbing us of our real interests."

Miss Aschenbrenner cited "neighborhood control of schools" as a "false issue."

"It should be quite obvious that the Irish of Boston," she said, "have little actual control of the quality or substance of their children's education. Even if they had, in a democracy, one person's or group's rights should not be maintained at the expense of another's; all should be equally represented."

The USE speaker said certain individuals and groups have become powerful enough in America to "depoliticize" ethnic groups.

"Unless citizens are able to unite on some basis as potent as common origins and traditions, they are powerless to fight back since they have few resources," she stated.

The anthropologist pointed to American Indians as an example of an ethnic group exploited by "powerful in-

JOYCE ASCHENBRENNER

Miss Aschenbrenner said a similar situation exists in the case of black Americans. "Their distinctive culture has been denied in order to prevent the development of a nationalistic pride; at the same time, the differences in heritage and cultural expression have been ridiculed and characterized as 'uncivilized.'"

The seminar speaker concluded by expressing hope that next year's celebration of the American Bicentennial will inspire a rediscovery and actualization of "the American dream."

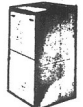

The USE sessions are being held in Lovejoy Library auditorium on the SUE campus. They are free of charge and open to the public.

The general USE topic for the year is "Ethnic Identity and Cultural Integrity."

The next session, scheduled for Jan. 24, will feature representatives of the School of Nursing. Their topic will be "Religion - Culture - Health Care."

EPA permits required

In an effort to control the 10½ million tons of pollutants that get into Illinois air each year, the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has initiated a new enforcement program against industries which emit pollutants without the required agency permits.

The agency has begun filing legal action against facilities operating without permits which emit at least 100 tons of specified pollutants into the air per year, according to Dr. Richard H. Briceland, director of the Illinois EPA.

"We concentrated, at first, on the larger polluters. Now that we have that underway, we will sue out and take legal action against the smaller sources also," Briceland said. He continued:

"We estimate that out of the 19,000 sources which emit pollutants per year, 9,000 don't have permits. These permits are important. Without them, we have a potentially serious situation. Air pollution can cause or aggravate lung diseases — diseases such as bronchitis and emphysema.

"When an industry applies for a permit it must, among other things, be in compliance with state air pollution control regulations. These regulations set limits, based on health factors, on the amounts of pollutants that industries can release."

"With this system, the agency and residents can be certain that local industries are taking the steps necessary to control pollution — the steps necessary to protect our health."

"Industries operating without the permits which were required by June, 1972, should contact the Illinois EPA in Springfield immediately. If they don't, they should expect to hear from us," Briceland concluded.

Hearing set on insurance testing plan

A public hearing will be held Feb. 3, in Springfield by the Illinois Department of Insurance on its proposed rule to allow an independent testing service to conduct the department's agents and brokers licensing examinations.

"This rule will assist the department to carry out the plans announced several months ago," Insurance Director Robert B. Wilcox said. "To increase the efficiency, fairness and reliability of the license exams, I believe that this is the best way to insure public confidence in the testing system and in the agents and brokers who receive their licenses."

In accordance with this rule, the department will consider bids on all phases of the testing procedures, including formulation of test questions, administration of examinations and machine grading of the tests.

Research on the program was begun almost a year ago in conjunction with a National Association of Insurance Commissioners' program; Illinois is the first state to move toward a completely independent testing operation.

Wilcox said that the department expects to have the transition to an independent contractor completed by late 1975, at the latest.

The hearing will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Feb. 3, in the Illinois Building Theatre at the State Fair grounds in Springfield. All interested members of the public are invited to attend.

Taxpayers should check figures

Thousands of Illinois taxpayers may not be taking all the exemptions to which they are entitled in filing state income tax returns, Illinois Director of Revenue Robert H. Alphin said today.

Alphin, who said income tax forms already have been mailed to nearly 4.5 million state taxpayers, reported that the department makes refunds where overpayments are discovered. Last year, 10,500 state income taxpayers received from the department more than $300,000 in refunds they didn't expect.

"These refunds were made to people who didn't claim all their exemptions," Alphin said. "Many other people made mistakes in arithmetic. We advise people to check their figures before they file their returns."

Other taxpayers may be paying more than they have to because they are not taking all the deductions that are allowed, the director said. "If the income is tax exempt for federal purposes, it is, with only a few exceptions, exempt for Illinois purposes," he said. The main exceptions in which non-federally-taxed income is taxed by Illinois are income from state and municipal bonds and other interest not included in the adjusted gross income, 50 per cent of capital gains, and dividend exclusions.

The state does not tax income from:

—The active duty pay of Illinois servicemen and women.

—The summer training pay of Illinois National Guardsmen.

—Interest on federal obligations like Series E bonds and federal notes.

—Qualified pension and profit-sharing plans. The director said a majority of pension plans are tax-free. He reminded taxpayers subtracting pension income to include with their Illinois return documentation of the pension. The section of pensions in the federal return can be used for that.

—A portion of the capital gains from the sale of property the taxpayer bought before but sold after Aug. 1, 1969, the beginning date of the Illinois income tax. The amount the taxpayer can subtract depends on how long he owned the property before Aug. 1, 1969, or the amount the property value appreciated before then. Alphin said taxpayers could telephone the tax assistance and information center in Springfield for answers to any questions about returns.

"People can obtain prompt service by calling with questions and filing returns early," the director said. "Your assistance center is usually flooded with calls in March and April, which means it could take longer to answer a question then."

Information and assistance in filing state income tax returns may be obtained by calling toll free 800-522-8972. Taxpayers can also call 641-2150 in Cook County and 782-3336 in Springfield.

Revenue sharing funds paid

Congressman Melvin Price (D-23rd District) has announced that the Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing has made its tenth regular payment of general revenue sharing funds.

"Of special interest are the allocations to the Twenty-third Congressional District. Price noted that St. Clair County received a total of $1,089,400 including a payment of $425,130 to the city of E. St. Louis and $282,800 to the county itself. Madison County received $1,028,677 including $110,932 to the city of Granite City and $299,457 to the county itself.

According to Cong. Price, the state and local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 authorizes the sharing of $30.2 billion of Federal funds between January, 1972, and December, 1976. The act stipulates that funds are to be distributed quarterly to the state and local governments according to a fixed formula.

The formula is based on population, tax effort, and relative income as determined by the United States Bureau of Census. After the formula is applied, one-third of each state's allocation is paid to the State itself, and the remaining two-thirds is paid to the units of local government within the state. Units of local government include counties, cities, towns, township, Indian tribes and Alaskan native villages.

"This is a valuable program providing the people of this district with assistance necessary for effective growth and development," Price concluded.

Other allocations in this area included $31,694 to the city of Edwardsville, $38,094 to Granite City Township, $27,800 to the city of Madison, $7,940 to Chouteau Township, and $12,815 to Namekichi Township.

Eight get state bar awards

The chairman of the Client's Security Fund of the Bar of Illinois has announced new awards totaling $14,747. Chairman Richard K. Decker said that amount has been distributed to eight persons who suffered losses because of dishonest or fraudulent acts of five former attorneys.

The smallest of the awards was in the amount of $200; the largest was $5,000. Four of the claims resulted from the activities of the same attorney, and the awards made in these cases totaled over $11,000.

The Client's Security Fund, established in 1966, is funded and operated jointly by the Illinois State Bar Association and The Chicago Bar Association. Through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974, the fund had dispensed $124,941 to 90 persons who had suffered losses through their transactions with 34 members of the bar of Illinois, all of whom have faced disciplinary proceedings.

The Client's Security Fund cooperates with the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission, an arm of the Illinois Supreme Court. The commission is empowered to censure, suspend or disbar lawyers who have violated professional ethics.

Persons making claims to the fund are required to cooperate with the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission, and normally, awards are not authorized until the completion of disciplinary proceedings.

State school fund may end year in red

Spending for welfare, school aid and the state's day-to-day operations was up by $275 million (14.8 per cent) in the first six months of this fiscal year over last year, Comptroller George W. Lindberg said this week in his monthly fiscal report.

The comptroller also noted that a December bulge in school aid expenditures now is likely to throw the state's common school fund into the red before June 30.

"Based on present spending rates, we are looking at a school fund deficiency at least $25 million this fiscal year," Lindberg said.

The common school fund deficiency is the second major one to emerge this fiscal year. A deficit of $130 million has been declared in present allocations for the state's welfare program.

The December spurt in school spending was due, Lindberg said, to $22 million in summer school payments, a normal occurrence. "This payment in December was the tipoff to the fact that the $1.2 billion marked for common school aid is not likely to be enough," Lindberg declared.

The comptroller's financial review also noted:

"The general funds available balance was $239 million at December's end, down $124 million since July 1, 1974.

General funds income during the first six months of the fiscal year that began July 1, 1974, is $293 million higher than in the same period the year before.

General funds spending during the first six months of fiscal 75 exceeded comparable spending in the preceding fiscal year by $275 million, or 14.8 per cent. This includes $86 million more in public aid grants, $93 million more in school aid payments, $67 million more in day-to-day operational spending. In total, $72 million more was spent than estimated by the Governor's Bureau of the Budget.

Total spending from all appropriated funds also is up this fiscal year over last. Spending from such funds after six months of this fiscal year totaled $3.67 billion, up $401 million over the same six-month period a year ago. (Of the total increase, $275 million was in general funds categories.)

"If the spending rate experienced in the first six months of this year continues, it will represent the largest increase in expenditures for any one fiscal year in the history of the state."

"The previous largest increase was in fiscal year 1971, the first full year of the state income tax, when many new and expanded programs were implemented," Lindberg said.

Tax form labels speed refunds

Taxpayers entitled to a federal income tax refund this year will receive their refund check sooner if they attach their pre-addressed label on the return they file, the IRS said today.

The returns are otherwise error free and all necessary documents are attached," Ira S. Loeb, IRS District Director for central and southern Illinois, said, "these labels speed processing and refund checks can be mailed out without delay."

The labels, which are provided in the forms packages mailed to taxpayers at the beginning of each year, contain the taxpayer's name, address, and social security number.

Loeb said that, if the name or address on the label is incorrect, taxpayers should lightly strike over the error and correct it. If the social security number on the label is wrong, taxpayers should write their correct number on the return.

Sponeman honored by McDonald firm

Arno Sponeman, 1060 Ruth St., has been chosen as "Driver of the Year" by the national McDonald's Restaurant organization.

The restaurants have 18 executive bus coaches at various locations in the United States and Canada known as "Big Macs," which are used for company public relations and community services programs.

A plaque presented to Sponeman during a dinner held at the Sheraton Hotel in Northbrook, Ill. last week read: "Presented to the driver who has shown the highest degree of professionalism in his job during the course of one year."

The plaque has the engraved signatures of Ray Kroc, chairman of the board of McDonald's; Fred Turner, president; Whitey Andres, manager air-coach transportation, and Ron L. Hall, manager of coach operation.

Sponeman drives the "Big Mac" assigned to the St. Louis District office which covers several mid-western states.

Sponeman and his wife, Beverly, have two boys and are members of the Hope Lutheran Church.

Active in local civic affairs, Sponeman is a member of the Breakfast Kiwanis Club, the Exploring Committee of the Cahokia Mount Scout Council and is a member of the adult committee of Explorer Post 10-4.

ARNO SPONEMAN
Driver of the Year

The "Big Mac" executive coach holds 21 persons and is available to local groups for short trips. "Big Mac" is equipped with lounge chairs, color television, telephones, tables and is designed for maximum traveling comfort. The coach is slightly larger than a regular sized Greyhound bus.

Local groups wishing to make use of the "Big Mac" service must fill out a request form available through the local McDonald restaurant, 1515 Johnson Road.

Since the "Big Mac" coach assigned to the St. Louis District services organizations from a four-state area, it is necessary to make application for use several months in advance, according to Sponeman.

Illinois Office of Education created, Johnson named

The Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction has been renamed the Illinois Office of Education.

The State Board of Education named its office at a meeting Monday in Springfield; Monday was the day the State Board and its superintendent, Dr. Joseph M. Cronin, officially assumed jurisdiction over elementary, secondary and vocational education.

Also selected were three assistant superintendents, one director and two policy advisors to the superintendent. Additional responsibilities were assigned to two assistant superintendents already with the office.

Dr. John Allford, former superintendent of schools in Mt. Vernon and Elmhurst, and presently a professor at the University of Illinois in Urbana, will fill the vacant position of assistant superintendent for planning, effective Jan. 22.

Dr. Nelson Ashline, associate commissioner of education for the state of Rhode Island, will take the new position of assistant superintendent of program development, which will include the vacant position of assistant superintendent for media services, effective Feb. 1.

Dr. Warren Carson, former superintendent of schools in Addison and Woodale and director for school finance for Oregon from 1965 to 1967, has been named to the vacant position of assistant superintendent for budgets, effective immediately.

Joshua Johnson, formerly of Madison, has been appointed director of community relations, effective immediately.

Johnson previously was coordinator, Ex-offender Employment Program, for the Illinois secretary of state.

He has been a teacher, coach and administrator on the local school level, was assistant superintendent for Cook County schools, and worked for the Office for the Superintendent of Public Instruction from 1968 through 1973.

Dr. Ben Hubbard and Dr. Alan Hickrod, both of Illinois State University, will serve without compensation as senior policy advisors to the state superintendent.

Robert Lyons, assistant superintendent for urban and bilingual education, will assume responsibility for the Chicago office.

Sue Bentz, assistant superintendent for professional relations and services, will serve — along with Larry Freeman, director of teacher programs — as staff liaison to the Joint Education Committee. Board Chairman Jack Witkowski told the board Monday that Governor Dan Walker had indicated he expects to appoint four persons to fill vacancies on the board by the date of the next meeting, Jan. 23.

In other action, the board reaffirmed its intent to remain independent from the jurisdiction of the State Department of Finance as well as from the Illinois Department of Personnel.

The next regular board meeting will be Jan. 23 in Chicago.

Job plan for small counties

Gov. Dan Walker on Tuesday announced a $2.4 million program to hire unemployed and underemployed persons in 73 Illinois counties, excluding Madison County. Counties with populations of less than 100,000 qualify for the program.

The funds will be used for public service jobs, job training and other manpower services. The program, funded through the Governor's Office of Manpower and Human Development, is part of a newly enacted $1 billion federal Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act.

The emergency manpower program is expected to fund about 350 public service jobs with local government and not-for-profit agencies in the 73 counties, including Calhoun, Clinton, Greene, Macoupin and Monroe. The jobs will fill unmet public service needs or implement new public services.

The areas of public service include environmental quality, education, health care, public safety, housing and neighborhood improvement, crime prevention and control, pollution control, transportation, prison rehabilitation, recreation, maintenance of parks, streets and other public facilities, rural development, conservation, beautification, solid waste removal and veterans outreach programs.

Applicants for the program or people needing assistance in obtaining assistance of any kind are to contact the nearest Illinois State Employment Service office for jobs, counseling, training or referral.

Dr. Maxwell is appointed

Ronald E. Stackler, director of the Illinois Department of Registration and Education this week announced the appointment of two new members to the Medical Examining Committee of the Department. Mays C. Maxwell, M.D., of East St. Louis and Luis Yarzagaray, M.D., of Highland Park, Ill. Dr. Maxwell is a graduate of Dillard University in New Orleans and Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn. He is on the staffs of St. Mary's Hospital, Christian Welfare Hospital and Centerville Township Hospital.

PREVIEW OF TONIGHT'S SHOW. J. D. Jarvis of Troy, seated at the controls of the television studio in the SIUE Communications Building, is a candidate for the university's first master of fine arts degree with a major in "mixed media-video." Getting a preview of Jarvis' graduate exhibition, which will be presented this evening, are (from the left) Jno Moormann, assistant to the director of the SIUE Broadcasting Service; John Regnell, director of the Department of Mass Communications; and David Huntley, chairman of the Department of Art and Design.

Video light, sound display

A show in videospace light and sound will be presented this evening in the television studio at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville by J. D. Jarvis of Troy, a candidate for the university's first master of fine arts degree with a major in "mixed media-video."

Titled "Kinetic Compositions of Electronic Flow," the exhibition will feature a continuous series of 20- to 40-minute shows emphasizing four different types of video art.

The program is scheduled from 7 to 11 tonight in Room 1020 of the Communications Building. It is open to the public, admission free. According to John Regnell, director of the Department of Mass Communications, and David Huntley, chairman of the Department of Art and Design, Jarvis' master's degree concentration is unique to the university and apparently rare in the nation.

His degree, scheduled to be awarded in June by the School of Fine Arts, represents an unusual mix of studies and the cooperation of several departments.

Jarvis received his bachelor's degree in mass communications in September 1972. Since then, his studies have been primarily in the field of art, and he has conducted extensive experimentation in kinetic art, using the television studio equipment available in the Department of Mass Communications.

Jarvis explains that the basic material he is working with is "electronic flow." By altering or shaping the flow of electrons, he is able to get a variety of images on a television screen. The exhibition will demonstrate these techniques.

According to Huntley, the master's degree candidate is using electronic tools instead of paintbrushes and chisels and materials like paint and clay. "In other words, he's painting, composing and sculpturing art with electronics," Huntley said. "I think it's one of the coming things in all the arts today."

Huntley said it is an area in which a number of people in the School of Fine Arts are interested, and he credited Jno Moormann, assistant to the director of the SIUE Broadcasting Service, with encouraging the use of art in experimental television.

"Moormann has worked with the departments of art, theater and dance in offering classes on an experimental basis while trying to develop a curriculum that will appeal to students in all the fine arts," Huntley said. "We hope eventually to get an undergraduate program approved in the fine arts that will make it possible for all types of 'mixes' in curriculum to take place," Huntley added.

Regnell also expressed enthusiasm for the future of curriculum mixes between the arts and communications. He said he is "very open" to the concept of cooperation between various disciplines in developing new concentrations of study at the University. Particularly beneficial, he believes, would be a "wedding" of communications and the social sciences.

Several possibilities for marketing the expertise Jarvis has been able to develop in his mixed media-video concentration.

The director of mass communications envisions cassettes of video art which could be played on home television monitors. Cable television is likely to offer outlets for video art, and some television commercials already are making use of the concept, he said.

Jarvis has developed an intense love of art as a result of his master's degree study. "Video art is beautiful, and I think it has a future," he said. "I would like to continue as a practicing artist, and I also would like to teach art at a university, with emphasis on video techniques."

Spectators at the exhibition tonight will have opportunities "to do their own thing" as well as watch the show. One phase of the program will be a "monitor column" in which six monitors will be available for spectators to control while experimenting with their own compositions on the television screens. Jarvis calls it "video sculpture."

"I want to develop the idea that television is something to play with as well as watch," Jarvis concluded.

Cost cut for installation of 28 doors at GCHS North

The Granite City Board of Education Tuesday night voted to install 28 folding doors in the pods between classrooms at Granite City High School North, costing a total of $1,386, which is $8,854 less than the lowest bid the board received last month for having solid doors installed in the pods.

The pods are located in the center of several adjoining classrooms and have been used as storage areas and for teacher work areas. The teachers requested doors to allow the areas to be more useful, officials said.

Bids were opened Dec. 10 for solid doors and the lowest acceptable bid was $10,240, or $2,350 over the $7,890 the board had appropriated for the work.

Tully A. Heubner, director of buildings and grounds for the Granite City schools, told the board Tuesday night that he had inspected various types of folding doors and had found that Panelfold doors, costing $55 each, were acceptable and could be installed by the school district's maintenance personnel.

The board voted to follow Heubner's recommendation and purchase the doors from MFG Associates, St. Louis, for $1,386. Having district personnel install the doors will cost about $1,000 and the district will save nearly $8,000 by having the selected folding doors, he said.

Seven firms were selected on the basis of low bids to supply instructional supplies totaling $3,244. Contracts were awarded to Interstate Supply for $101, Eys-Mo' Inc. for $409, Ideal Inc. $1,852, J. S. Latta $371, Obermeier $22, Beckley Cardy $361 and Bradburn $319.99 were awarded to eight suppliers for supplies and equipment for the girls' physical education program. Contracts were awarded to J & N Distributors for $24, Economy Sporting Goods for $401, West Coast netting for $75, Cohn Athletic Service $794, Nissen Corp. $285, Playground Corp. of America $460, J. L. Hammett Co. $869, and Sauk Valley Farms $110.

Bernington & Prosser Co. was selected as low bidder to supply 600 gallons of duplicator fluid to the district for $1,104, exactly double what the fluid cost in last year's bidding, it was noted.

The board, on the recommendation of Larry Talbert, vocational auto mechanics instructor, voted to purchase an infra-red exhaust performance analyzer, an engine performance testing course publication and other manuals and specification cards, all costing a total of about $2,300, from Sun Electric Corp., Fenton, Mo.

The board approved an increase in the cost of physical education mats for the district also was approved. Premier Products Co. was low bidder July 3, 1974, for mats costing $110 each, a total of $440. Since that time, the mats, which have not been delivered, have increased in price to $127.50 per mat, raising the cost $70 to $510.

Board Member George Moore said Bradburn bid is the lowest of those received and the board approved the increase.

Dick Blick Co. was the only bidder on an art drying rack costing $271, and the board agreed to award the company the contract. Five companies bid on supplying a commercial dry mount and seal for the art program and Stanley Photo was the lowest at $292 and was selected by the board.

Prairie Farms Dairy submitted the low bid and was awarded the contract to supply the district 150 to 200 cases of margarine costing nearly 43 cents per pound.

The board approved an additional payment of $2,528 to Co-Ordinated Youth Services to rectify an error in a claim. The money is expected to be reimbursed next year.

A new agreement with the Special Education Region was approved in which eight students will be transported by the Madison County Association for Retarded Citizens to special education class sittings for $48.64 per day.

The board voted to continue its eight subscriptions to the American School Board Journal, published by the National School Board Association, for $128 per year. A bill from James A. Rankin & Associates, Inc., for $237 for emergency heating work done at GCHS North was approved.

Tax cut

crippling every city in the U. S. It eventually would throw all the cities in chaos and would be very disastrous." Ebersold said the comment by Mr. Ford also may refer to reduced assistance for school districts. Sasyk agreed that halting federal revenue sharing would have an adverse effect on cities. "Revenue sharing is our only salvation now. It would take the backbone out of every city that is operating on revenue sharing," he commented.

The Madison and Venice mayors said their cities are in relatively good condition financially for the next few years, unless Congress discontinues revenue sharing.

Edward F. Reiske, executive vice-president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, warned against excessive pessimism about the President's proposal.

"Our trouble has been that we shoot everything down. We would rather talk about the bad things."

"I do not know whether Mr. Ford's plan will work or not — and neither does Mr. Ford — but I know it will not work unless we help. So, I think we had better try a little cooperation."

"Congress will probably make some modifications to the plan and that is what we have Congress for," he concluded.

Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City took a similar attitude toward the Ford plan. "I'm glad to see some of our tax money coming back to us. I think it is going to help, because with the tax on the oil, it has to help."

"Just because the President proposes a program does not assure that Congress is going to accept the whole plan. This, at least, shows he is trying and it is a major step."

Schuler said he does not feel Ford's statements threatened the continuation of revenue sharing. "I think he just means a one-year moratorium on new federal programs, not on existing ones."

"I don't think he can touch the next two years of revenue sharing, because it is already funded," the mayor predicted.

He emphasized that the proposed tax rebate program should bring more money into the economy.

President Ford described his rebate program as follows: "This country needs an immediate federal income tax cut of $16 billion."

"Twelve billion dollars or three-fourths of the total of this cut should go to individual taxpayers in the form of a cash rebate amounting to 12 per cent of their 1974 tax payments — up to a $1,000 rebate."

"If Congress acts by April 1, you will get your first check for half the rebate in May and the rest by September."

Roy Norton of Granite City said he feels the Ford plan is a difficult way in which to rebate taxes.

He said the program could be easier if taxpayers were allowed a 12 per cent cut in their taxes on the 1974 income tax returns now being filed.

"Another easy way would be by reducing withholdings 12 per cent and giving each guy another $10 or so a week more on his paycheck to spend."

Norton stressed that Mr. Ford's plan does not affect the filing of 1974 income tax returns, and said he could see "no reason why people should avoid filing their returns until the issue is resolved."

Mr. Ford said the other one-fourth of the tax cut, about $4 billion, should go to business taxpayers, including farmers, "to promote plant expansion and create more jobs."

He proposed increasing the investment tax credit — which now is 7 per cent for business and 4 per cent for utilities — to 12 per cent for businesses.

He did not say if the investment tax credit for utilities would rise, but added, "There will be special provisions to assist essential public utilities to step up their energy capacity."

He asserted "This will encourage capital spending and productivity, the key to recovery and growth."

Carl E. Mathias, service area manager of Illinois Power Co., commented that the government programs should aid power companies in needed growth.

"We have to find ways to make our stock as attractive as possible, and increasing the investment tax credit will help," he said.

Mathias felt Mr. Ford's speech lacked enough details on which to base a specific opinion, but said the government realizes the plight of many utilities. He expects new programs to be favorable.

"The present financial situation has caused many utilities to cancel or defer expansion plans. We deferred for one year the building of an atomic power plant at Clinton, but not just for that reason."

"To date, IP has had no trouble getting capital. But we need some help to make our stock more attractive if we are to continue to grow," Mathias said.

Proposed expansions that are cancelled or postponed can only lead to a shortage of electricity at some time in the future. I can foresee electricity becoming a rationed commodity if something is not done," he said.

Mathias said that the government already has studied a plan of taking each consumer's bills for 1974 and restricting them to about 10 per cent or less of last year's electric and natural gas usage.

Usage above the proposed level would be subject to a high federal tax, according to the plan.

He said it is only one of many plans the government is considering for reducing electric and natural gas consumption.

Mr. Ford said he will use his Presidential emergency powers immediately to raise the import fees on each barrel of foreign crude oil coming into the United States.

During the next three months, he proposes increasing the fees "from one to three dollars per barrel," apparently raising the fees one dollar per month during the three months for a total increase of $3 per barrel.

Assuming that the President is referring to 45-gallon standard barrels, the increase would translate to six and two-thirds cents per gallon more at the gasoline pumps by the end of three months, plus any added costs to the oil companies which would be passed on to the consumer.

"If Congress speedily enacts this national energy program, there will be no need for compulsory rationing or long waiting lines at the service station."

"Gasoline prices will go up, though not as much as with a 20-cent-a-gallon gas tax. Furthermore, the burden of the conservation taxes on oil will be shared by all petroleum users, not just motorists," Mr. Ford said Monday night.

Mathias said an increase in the price of oil would affect IP, but not as much as many other power companies.

"Ninety-one per cent of our electricity is made by coal burning generating stations and only eight per cent is produced by burning oil. This compares with many places on the East Coast where 91 per cent of their electricity is generated by oil."

He added, "We do not predict an oil shortage for Illinois Power Co."

Under a stipulation of the IP rate schedule, which has been approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission, the utility may pass along to the consumer any additional costs caused by an increase in the price of fuel for production without having ICC hearings or approval.

"An increase in oil costs should not affect customer's bills very much, since only eight per cent of our electricity is generated with oil."

"But an increase in the price of coal could have an effect, and we have not yet determined how much the recent coal miners' labor settlement will drive prices up," he explained.

Increased gasoline prices for IP vehicles are not expected to have much of an impact he said, adding, "We buy gasoline directly from the refineries and we have been on a reduced allocation about two years."

"We have taken some steps to make the best possible use of our gasoline and we have managed to get by."

He said gasoline for vehicles comes under operating costs which cannot be passed on directly to the customer without ICC hearings and approval.

Mathias concluded, however, that with all costs increasing rapidly, "Rate increases will be almost a constant thing."

A spokesman for Illinois Bell Telephone Co. said the President's program was not detailed enough to indicate whether the telephone company will benefit.

"We will need a detailed study of the full plan before we can determine if the benefits will offset the inflationary effects. It is too early to make predictions," he said.

He said that, if the investment tax credit for utilities is raised, "there generally may be some benefits. Our primary source of capital funds is investors and this may encourage them to invest more."

The investment credit allows businesses and utilities to invest more money in expansion programs while allowing them to avoid taxes on a portion of the money invested in the expansion.

One businessman said that, if the credit is increased another five per cent for one year, "it should provide a big incentive to businesses to try to do any expansion during that year, because no one can predict what the picture might be for the following year."

Other portions of President Ford's plan include volunteer efforts to reduce energy use, a five-year delay on automobile pollution standards to achieve a 40 per cent increase in the miles-per-gallon provided by cars, and reduction of oil imports by one million barrels the first year and two million the second year.

Also, increased benefits to low-income persons, restriction of federal wage increases — including Social Security and government retirement pay — to five per cent in 1975, and study of existing federal programs to determine if some of them can be reduced or eliminated by Congress.

A business executive commented after the speech, "He has some good ideas, but I don't think we will ever see them in effect in the form he presented them."

This is a Republican President presenting ideas to a Democratic-controlled Congress," it was pointed out.

Park district adds new classes in Yoga, tap and modern dance

The Granite City Park District is adding Yoga, tap dance and modern dance to its adult program line-up, beginning Jan. 23.

Dance classes will be conducted under the supervision of Mrs. Marilyn Phillips. Tap classes will be held on Mondays, from 7 until 8 p.m., followed by modern jazz from 8 until 9 p.m.

Mrs. Phillips holds bachelor and master's degrees in Theatre and Dance from the University of Illinois. Dance classes will begin Monday, Jan. 27.

"Although recitals could be presented by program participants, we anticipate the majority of participants may wish to take part in the classes simply as a form of self-expression and physical fitness, rather than as a road to public performance. Our main goal for adults is simply to make them feel better," commented Mrs. Phillips.

Jesse, park district recreation director, "And the tap dancing may show them something about themselves, as well as bring back memories of some of the 'good ole days,'" he added.

Yoga classes will be held on Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9, beginning Jan. 23.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Ellen A. Wilson, who has studied at Southern Illinois University and has made presentations throughout the area, participants will learn such things as breath control, stretches, touch meditations and Yoga.

Mrs. Wilson stressed that her classes primarily will be concerned with the gradual conditioning of the muscles to Yoga. "Yoga offers an excellent opportunity for fitness through relaxation. I can show an individual how to go through 10 minutes of Yoga and he will feel more relaxed than when he started."

Both men and women have found Yoga beneficial to their health, she said. Either may enroll for the course.

Both classes will meet at the Nameki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues. No charge.

YMCA to campaign for adult and family memberships

Jan. 19-28 is the period set for the 1975 YMCA membership campaign," Richard Allen, chairman, announced today. "We are going to use the team approach to seek our goal of 150 new and renewal memberships. "The YMCA is basically a membership organization made up of persons who are concerned about growth and development in a physical, mental and spiritual way. "The Tri-City Area YMCA has, 1,287 members in the various categories at present, and we are shooting for a goal of 2,400 members by the end of 1975. "The goal for the campaign is 150 members, which will give us a good start toward our annual goal. "Team captains that have been selected are Mrs. Jean Beatty, Dale Campbell, John Fernandez, Paul Christiansen, Mrs. Margaret Ann Henderson, Charles Hasse, Tom Jones, Joseph Milleto, Jerry Maeras, John Piers, George Moran Jr. and John Ubaldi. "They are presently selecting five persons each to work on their teams." Types of membership are: family-regular membership, $120 a year; family-fitness center, $150. Adult-regular-men or women, $60 yearly; adult-fitness center, $90 a year.

Young adult, $40 yearly; and youth membership, $30 a year. Present member totals, the campaign goals and the annual 1975 goals include the following: Family-regular, 11, 10 and 40. Family-fitness center, 15, 10 and 30. Adult-regular, 345, 50 and 400. Adult-fitness center, 137, 50 and 200. Young adult, 32, 30 and 100. And youth members, 609, 30 and 1,600.

"During this campaign, our primary emphasis will be on adults, young adults and family memberships," Allen said. "We will plan our efforts to secure youth members during the year. "First prize for the person who secures the most members during the campaign is a free trip to Austria May 15-23, 1975, as part of a tour group. There also will be second and third place as well as team awards.

"There are three key dates for the campaign. On Friday, Jan. 17, all of the campaign workers will receive their instruction and materials. "On Friday, Jan. 24, there will be a report meeting to see who is leading. "On Tuesday, Jan. 28, will be the climax of the campaign; winners will be announced at the annual meeting of the YMCA that is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the 'Y' building. "In this day of fast communication, surprisingly enough, a good many people still think of the YMCA in the old terms of 'gym and swim.' "There's a lot more going on now in the YMCA, which has expanded to over 8 million members across the United States — 30 per cent of them women and girls. "YMCA Week Jan. 19-28 seems like a good time to bring the community up to date on the YMCA, and over 60 persons will be involved in the effort to encourage persons to join the 'Y.' "The fastest growing category of members in the YMCA continues to be family memberships. "More than one million members in over 1,000 YMCAs across the country are family-type memberships. This is a 133 per cent increase in the last ten years. "Locally the Tri-City Area YMCA has placed primary emphasis on the family memberships to encourage members to enjoy activities together. "We have had a 50 per cent increase in our family membership, but we have only begun to get families to see the advantages. It is very economical. "Special times are set aside each week in the gym-pool-game room for families to play together. Further, we have programs for every member of the family—mom, dad, son and daughter."

Students save money through book rental system at SIUE

Full-time undergraduate students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville save at least $50 per quarter in textbook costs because of the University's book rental system. According to James Oglesby, supervisor of services at SIUE, with responsibility for Textbook Service and Printing Service, a student's savings could run as high as $100 per quarter if the student is carrying a large number of hours in courses that require more than one book. Textbook rental fees range from $3 per quarter for a part-time student carrying five hours to $8 for students carrying 11 hours and over. The fee provides the basic textbooks required for that particular quarter. Graduate and unclassified students must purchase all texts, but they are available at discounts. Students may purchase new texts at 10 per cent off list price or used texts at 20 per cent off. Generally, books are replaced every three years, and books no longer used by the University are offered at major discounts. Materials such as workbooks and laboratory manuals may be purchased from the University Bookstore, and books for supplementary reading are available at the library or bookstore. Not many colleges and universities offer the rental system, according to Oglesby. It is costly to establish, and apparently most schools oppose the plan because they consider the system restrictive, he said. "I understand some universities want the freedom to change their texts as often as they wish and to require a student to purchase a considerable number of books for one course," Oglesby said. "This means that in some cases, students who cannot afford a large outlay for books either must try to borrow them or do without. The result is frustration and often, failure."

According to Harry Lutz, director of Auxiliary Services at SIUE, there is a recent trend among major midwestern universities toward adoption of the book rental plan. SIUE's rental system was set up when SIUE began operations in the Edwardsville area 16 years ago. Now, the system is self-supporting even though rental fees have not been raised in 10 years. Oglesby estimates the retail value of the books presently in inventory at more than $1 million. Textbook Service helps students by providing them work opportunities. As many as 30 students are employed during periods when books are being issued and returned. "Generally, we have excellent cooperation from faculty and students in the operation of Textbook Service, which means we're able to offer the latest and very best instructional materials in the most efficient manner," Oglesby said. "But the best part of my job is in knowing we are providing a service that saves the students a lot of money over a period of a four-year college education."

TEXTBOOK SERVICE at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is managed by James Oglesby (center), who also manages Printing Service, and Herbert Hoover (right), supervisor of the unit. At left is Mrs. Ann McCullum, a secretary for Textbook Service and a graduate student in city and regional planning at SIUE. The University's book rental system is self-supporting and has a book inventory worth more than $1 million.

MULTIPLE EXERCISING—Sixteen stations for exercising are available on this machine in the "Bubble" gymnasium at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Many students, faculty and staff spend their lunch hours working out on the equipment. Ann Schorlau (second from left), coordinator of recreation in the Student Affairs Office, is available every Wednesday during the noon hour to give instruction in the use of the machine.

FINAL CHECK—Joe Schrage (right) of Edwardsville, a mass communications major at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has his rental book list checked by John Jateko, a student worker in Textbook Service. Full-time students save at least $50 per quarter in textbook costs because of the University's book rental system.

Patricia Ann Hursey, Dennis Morman are wed

Miss Patricia Ann Hursey and Dennis Lawrence Morman were united in marriage in a double ring ceremony performed on Jan. 4 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon by the Rev. Robert Widdin at Bethel Free Evangelical Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hursey, 5 Lexington Court, Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, 1128 N. Knight, Park Ridge, Ill.

Nuptial selections were sung by Brian Widdin, who was accompanied at the organ by Mary Turner.

For her wedding, the former Miss Hursey wore a full length gown of white linen, fashioned in A-line style.

Delicate daisy lace accented the mandarin collar and cuffs of the long sleeves and created a decorative front panel on the skirt.

A lace headpiece held in place a floor length veil of net and she carried long stemmed red roses.

Mrs. Diane Komeshak and Miss Carol Hursey, both sisters of the bride, served as honor attendant and bridesmaid.

They chose full length velvet dresses in a cranberry shade, made with Empire bodices and mandarin collars, edged in white daisy lace.

Each attendant held a white fur muff. Jennifer Fisher, a niece of the groom, wore a frock of similar design with long sleeves and a full, gathered skirt. She carried a basket of rose petals.

John Hursey, a brother of the bride, attended the groom as best man. Kenneth Opperman, the bride's cousin, was groomsmen.

Escorting the guests to their seats were Arthur Werle and Pat Komeshak, an uncle and brother-in-law of the bride, respectively.

Robbie Evans, a nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer. Guests were received by the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Morman at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

After a wedding trip, the couple is now residing Carbondale, Ill., where they are attending Southern Illinois University.

The bride attended McKendree College for two years. She is currently a senior student at SIUC, majoring in home economics, and works part-time as secretary to a university professor.

The groom studied for one year at Montana State University. He also is a senior at SIUC with a major in cinema photography.

Both are members of the Campus Crusade for Christ organization.
